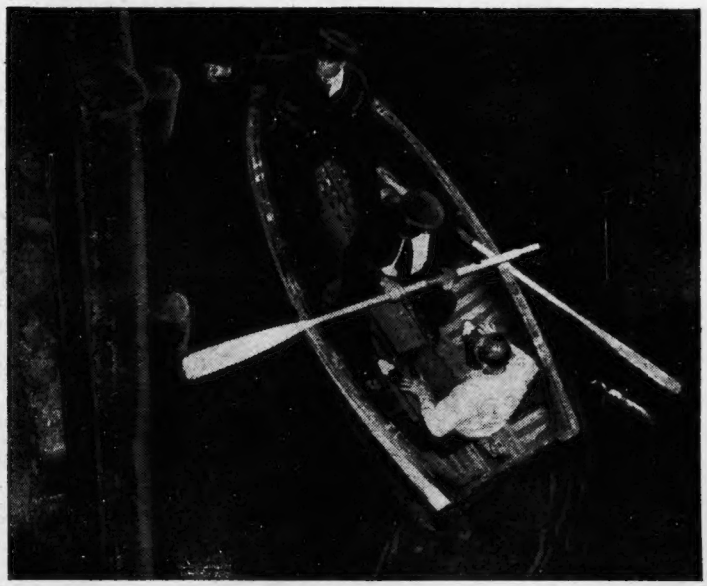
CHARLES EATON EN ROUTE TO HOSPITAL



Lost Hat Nearly Fatal—Police rescue Charles Eaton, 37, of Malden, from the waters of South Bay early today after he had plunged off the Dover st., South End, bridge in an attempt to reclaim his lost hat. Eaton was homeward bound from work when the wind blew his hat under the bridge's side railing. He bent over to reclaim it, lost his balance and landed in the water. He was taken to City Hospital and treated for immersion and lacerations.

Train Youth or Be Extinct, U. S. Told

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP) — The nation heard from a commission of nine prominent civilians today that the compulsory training of up to 950,000 American youths a year is an "urgent military necessity" in this world of insecure peace.

The alternative to that and other multi-billion dollar outlays for national defense is to invite extermination, President Truman's advisory commission on universal training declared.

The group painted this bleak picture of the future if its warning goes unheeded:

For a few years—from four to 10—"our monopoly of the atomic bomb" and the availability of battle-trained veterans of World War II may serve as insurance against a sneak assault on the American homeland.

But the precipitate drop in the nation's state of readiness—"our military forces are a hollow shell"—will encourage "those to whom weakness on the part of peace-loving nations is a passport to aggression."

Other countries who share our democratic ideals will lose faith.

And then:

"The mantle of totalitarianism will spread its darkness over still larger sections of the earth, increasing the peril to us and narrowing the company of those on whose aid we can count in the search for lasting peace."

The document was drafted and signed unanimously by the nine members of the commission headed Dr. Karl T. Compton, scientist and president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The note of urgency which the commission gave its findings was not echoed immediately in Congress.

There was every indication there that aside from possible enactment of an Army-Navy unification bill this summer—a companion step urged by the commission—any long-range defense program will have to await the next session, beginning in January.

Although the Compton group went along with Mr. Truman's request that the official name of the project be only "universal training," with the original word "military" deleted, it asserted:

"The only basis on which universal training should be accepted, in our opinion, is a demonstration that it is needed to insure our safety in a world in which peace is not yet secure."

Other benefits—physical, mental and moral—would be "by-products of a project which is made necessary by the state of the world today."

As proposed by the commission, the program would follow this outline:

On the basis of census figures, between 1,000,000 and 1,100,000 male youths would become eligible for training annually for the next few years (liability for training would start at age 18 or upon completion of high school, whichever occurred first.)

Out of this total, an estimated 200,000 would be physically or mentally incapacitated. An additional 50,000 to 100,000 would not meet present Army and Navy standards but still could be trained in some form. Taking variations into account a pool of not less than 750,000 or more than 950,000 thus would be eligible for training.

Basic training in camp or aboard ship (a choice of services would be given so far as possible) would last six months. The training would be consistent with developing weapons and techniques in warfare.

Upon completion of the six

Tornado Death Toll Now 43

By the Associated Press

Storm-lashed Arkansas and Oklahoma counted at least 43 dead and hundreds injured today from tornadoes which swept through rural areas causing thousands of dollars of property damage.

Hardest hit was a heavily populated agricultural region near Pine Bluff in southeastern Arkansas. Thirty-seven bodies were reported recovered and about 15 persons were missing.

Hundreds were injured as the twister leap-frogged across the rich Arkansas farming area yesterday, narrowly missing Pine Bluff, a city of 40,000.

In Oklahoma, three-fourths of the town of Leedey was leveled Saturday night. Six persons were killed and about 25 injured. The town has a population of 600.

Both states were hit earlier this year by severe storms. In April, tornadoes in northern Arkansas and northwestern Oklahoma caused more than 100 deaths and heavy property damage.

In yesterday's Arkansas storm, estimates of the number of homes destroyed ranged as high as 1000.

So great was the force of the wind that bridges "were literally blown away across bayous" and trees were ripped to splinters.

"Whole families—Negro and white—were wiped out," said Pine Bluff Mayor George Steed.

Must Restore World Peace, Pope Warns

By MICHAEL CHINIGO

VATICAN CITY, June 2 (INS)—Pope Pius XII warn today the world is stuck and sinking under the terrible delu of postwar problems that confronts it.

In a speech broadcast throughout the world, the Holy Father deplored the humiliating poverty of the nations' moral efforts and decried the continuing concentration on armaments.

Adressing the College of Cardinals, he declared an order of right and peace must be substituted for discord and violence.

He said:

the "History's verdict depends on the events and deliberations in the remaining months.

"The future generations will bless or damn it, depending on whether it will represent a starting point for a re-awakening of brotherhood . . . or a progressive decadance into the stagnant marshes of discord and violence."

His Holiness warned that 1947 is half gone with overwhelming problems still to be solved in the address, delivered on the occasion of His Name day.

He said future hope depended on the prompt establishment of normal good neighbor relations, and observed:

"It is still possible to re-establish these relations—even after the second World War. May the leaders of the nations not miss this opportunity.

"It might—God forbid—be the last."

The Pope warned unhealed war wounds probably will become deeper before they are healed.

Discussing the failure of prosperity to follow the war's end, he remarked:

"It cannot be excluded that inertia and hindered trade possibilities, into which certain people might be forced, may bring in the not too distant future an economic crisis and unemployment even in other nations (than Italy)."

The Pontiff recalled his 1944 Christmas appeal for a concerted peace effort, and added, "It still is not too late."

He deplored millions of human beings continue to live under oppression and arbitrary action, and observed that neither their bed, belongings, liberty or honor were secure.

The Holy Father spoke of his grief for the displaced persons.

He expressed hope that their plight would ring into the distant corners of the world and find a response in the souls of those who are managing public affairs.

Discussing the failure of Allies to complete the peace, warned that a succession of less conferences may cause people to lost faith and patie

He said:

"If there is anything to be f ful of, it is fear itself."

The Holy Father decried false prophets who wit scruples are spreading, with tr ery and violence, conceptions world and state that are contr to the natural order.

Catholics throughout the w were exhorted by His Holines apply their faith against the fort of obscure powers of de position, discord and dest which today are blanketi entire world.

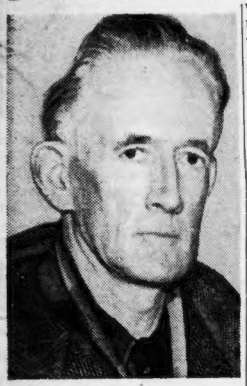
Picking Jury For Chandler Treason Trial

The eyes of the world were on a federal courtroom here in Boston as Douglas Chandler, a gaunt, gray-haired man of 58, went on trial today charged with giving aid and comfort to the enemy by hurling his voice across the sea.



DOUGLAS CHANDLER
Faces Possible Death Sentence

The nation's first treason trial in modern times began with a series of bench conferences, followed by the slow process of picking a jury of 12 men and two alternates from a panel of 250.

The accused sat outside the bar enclosure between two marshal's deputies, a few yards from his daughter, Laurette, 21, who described herself as "a voice crying in the wilderness" in defense of her father.

Chandler, former Baltimore newspaperman, is accused of aiding the enemy "within the United States and elsewhere" by broadcasting from Berlin on many dates between Dec. 11, 1941, the start of war with the German Reich, and May 8, 1945, V-E Day.

The government says his broadcast pseudonym was "Paul Revere."

Discs on which the broadcasts were recorded on this side of the ocean were brought into court and will be played to the jury over an amplifier system.

The trial of "Paul Revere" takes place in Boston by a trick of fate which forced the plane bringing Chandler from Europe under arrest to land here instead of at Washington where the trial was to have been held. Federal law requires holding the trial at the first point of landing.

Chandler was indicted under Article III of the Constitution of the United States.

The defendant and the government have 20 juror challenges each without giving reasons and as many others as they can support with cause.

A large number gathered for the trial but few got in, owing to the many jurors that had been called and the large number of press and radio personnel covering the case.

Those admitted were carefully scrutinzed by two deputies at the courtroom entrance.

Eighteen Europeans, flown from Germany, Austria and Italy, were on hand as witnesses.

Chandler was brought into court between Deputies Michael H. Barry and Edward Shea. His attorneys appointed by the court Claude B. Cross and Edward C. Park, immediately went into conference with Judge Francis J. W. Ford and the prosecutors.

The government attorneys are Oscar R. Ewing and Tom DeWolf, special assistants to U. S. Atty. Gen. Tom Clark, and Gerald J. McCarthy, assistant to U. S. Atty. William T. McCarthy.

Chandler allegedly broadcast the

Kelly Bribe Trial Put Over Until Thursday

Trial of City Council Pres. John B. Kelly on three indictments growing out of the grand jury probe of municipal affairs two months ago was set today for Thursday in Suffolk Superior Court.

Appearing before Judge Brogna with Atty. Timothy J. Murphy, counsel for Kelly, Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle said the government was ready to proceed. Judge Brogna asked if Thursday would be agreeable and set that date after the two attorneys agreed.

Doyle pointed out Kelly had not yet been arraigned on the third indictment, charging him with attempted larceny. This was returned last week by the grand jury to replace one on the same charge which had been quashed on a technicality by Judge Brogna.

It was agreed Kelly would make his plea to this indictment at the opening of the trial. Murphy moved the latest indictment be quashed but this was denied by Judge Brogna, who saved the defense attorney's exceptions.

The other two indictments, to which Kelly has pleaded not guilty, charge him in four counts with seeking bribes from John Comoletti, of Mattapan, and Antonio Donato, of Watertown, in connection with their application for a garage permit in Dorchester.

Another council member, Joseph M. Scannell, South Boston, also was indicted in the municipal probe. No date has been set for his trial.

Plane Smashes Circus Truck, Kills Driver

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., June 2 (AP)—An Army airplane smashed into the cab of a circus trailer truck, struck an automobile and then dove into an embankment near Connellsville airport, killing the truck driver and slightly injuring the pilot and two others.

The tail of the AT-6 training plane tore the cab from the chassis, fatally injuring David Morris, 38, driver for Dorman Bros. Circus. The pilot, Sgt. William Smiley of Uniontown, Pa., was saved by his safety belt.

4 Die in Blast At Powder Plant

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 2 (INS)—At least four persons were killed today and many others were injured when two explosions ripped through the American Cyanamid Co. powder plant six miles west of New Castle.

No estimate of the number of persons injured was immediately available. Police said more than 300 persons are employed in the factory.

Company officials in Pittsburgh said early reports indicate several persons were killed. The plant manufactures dynamite.

The explosion broke windows in New Castle and police said the blast was heard in a 10 mile area.

Healer Mobbed by Idolaters

LOS ANGELES, June 2 (INS)—Avak, the faith healer, nearly touched off a riot by attending mass at the Armenian Apostolic Holy Cross Church here.

Members of the Armenian community descended on the little church in droves. Completely beyond control of two policemen who tried to preserve order, they shrieked, sobbed and moaned pleas to the mystic to bless them with his magic cures.

An estimated 1500 men and women were there, many with babies or small children in their arms.

When Avak arrived and again when he left they overran rope lines in frantic efforts to touch him or, failing in that, just to be near him.

When crowds blocked the door after the church had been filled to overflowing, some climbed through the windows to get a glimpse of the healer.

Avak was brought to Los Angeles from Palm Springs, where he has been trying to cure the epileptic son of rich Krikor Arakelian, by one of the church trustees.

As they drove up the throng crushed about the car so solidly that Avak had difficulty in reaching the church. To those who tried to clear a line for him he said in Armenian:

"Don't push the people, but let me out."

Once in the church, the healer was installed on a rug-covered dais beneath the pulpit and inside the altar rail.

The crush was so great the candles at the base of the altar were extinguished to keep people being pushed against them from being set afire.

Abp. M. Calfayan exhorted the congregation to return to the teachings of Jesus and said that Avak represented a symbol of God, sent to show them the way.

As the mass ended the healer put his hands on the unleavened bread that represents the body of Christ and it was passed out to as many as were in reach. Then Avak, with hands unlifted, said a silent prayer for the people.

As he started away, women moaned and wept and both men and women joined in a new rush to touch his robe.

One woman fainted and was taken away in an ambulance. A man prostrated himself in front of the healer and kissed the hem of his robe.

Avak finally reached the waiting car and was driven away.

Retailers' Club Backs Community Property Tax Law

Daniel Bloomfield, managing director of the Massachusetts Council of Retail Merchants, an organization representing 10,000 store operators of 36 cities and towns of the Commonwealth, today announced his support of the Community Property Law.

Hearing on the matter is to be held a tthe State House at 10 a. m. tomorrow by the legislative committee on taxation.

Bloomfield, who will be one of the many business and industrial leaders in attendance at the hearing, said today, "I am convinced that this is a most beneficial piece of legislation.

"I am hopeful that it will be enacted by the present session of the Legislature. It is to the advantage of every businessman to have this matter acted upon now and I urge that all citizens who can do so be present at tomorrow's hearing.

"The public must be given relief from taxation and I know of no better way to make this possible than by passage of this Community Property Law."

Hundreds of persons are expected to be in attendance at tomorrow's hearing, among them Mayor Curley and civic leaders of many communities of the state.

The hearing primarily is on the question of admission of a bill filed with the Legislature by Reps. Peter Jordan (R.) of Revere and David Cleary (D.) of Charlestown, which would make Massachusetts a community property state. Such a law, if enacted, would save citizens a minimum of $32,000,000 in federal income taxes and give a wife equal status with her husband, proponents say.

Latest to join the growing ranks of legislators, public officials and prominent citizens who are in favor of the measure is Mrs. Leslie B. Cutler of Needham, socialite member of the Legislature since 1939 and ardent advocate of full equality of women.

"As I understand the bill," Mrs. Cutler said, "it would bring about two highly desirable objectives. First, it would make them equal partners with men in the marriage union.

"I think such equality between man and wife would result in a true partnership which would tend to stabilize marriage and make it more enduring.

"And under a community property law, I can see how married couples could effect a great savings in payment of federal income taxes. If a man makes between five and ten thousand dollars a year, according to statistics of the bill's sponsors, he could save between 23 to 32 per cent by dividing his income equally with his wife who would then file her own tax return.

"The bill protects both husband and wife in the matter of personal property owned prior to marriage, as only income and property acquired after marriage would become common property.

"I can also see how the State might find in community property laws a way out of present financial difficulties. While I have not had time to study the matter in detail, sponsors of the bill point out that if a married couple can save from 23 to 42 per cent on federal income taxes they would not be likely to object to paying the State which makes such a saving possible a little more in State income taxes."

It is expected that representatives of women's organizations in particular will attend the hearing, as the bill means another step forward in the matter of complete equality with men.

Support by Mrs. Cutler will undoubtedly influence many women to favor the Community Property Bill as she has, for more than a score of years, been active in promoting their welfare.

Brink Named Captain of Ancients

John C. Brink of Newton, head of the C. I. Brink Sign Co., was elected captain of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts today in the traditional "Drum Head" election during impressive ceremonies marking the 309th anniversary of the organization.

Capt. Brink

The new captain has been a member of the company since 1931 and has served in each office from first sergeant of artillery to his present highest rank.

Lt. E. Douglas MacPherson was elected first lieutenant and Col. Edward A. Spry, second lieutenant of the company.

Members of the company, garbed in their colorful Continental uniforms, members of similar military organizations from other parts of New England, and military and naval guests gathered for the annual exercises during the forenoon at Faneuil Hall.

After a luncheon there, the members of the company and their guests marched through downtown streets to the State House.

There they were reviewed by Gov. Bradford and then they escorted him to the Old South Church for the annual services.

After the services the company marched to Boston Common for the traditional "Drum Head" election, then broke ranks.

The annual reception and banquet will be held tonight at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

Lost Hat Perils Man's Life in Bridge Plunge

Losing his hat nearly cost a Malden man his life today when he fell 40 feet from the Dover st. bridge into the chill waters of South bay, and then clung to a brigde piling for 30 minutes until rescued. Charles Eaton, 37, of Princeton rd., a machinist at a South Boston plant, was walking across the bridge at 4 a. m. after work when a gust of wind blew his hat off and wedged it under the side railing.

Unable to recover the headpiece from the sidewalk, Eaton climbed over the railing and was reaching for it when he lost his balance and fell from the highest point of the bridge.

He splashed his way to a bridge piling and shouted to workmen at the railroad yard on the South Boston side. They summoned police in a radio car, but the officers were unable to reach him.

Using two-way radio, the police contacted the harbor patrol boat William H. McShane, which raced up Fort Point Channel to the bridge. Officers in a small boat reached the victim and carried him to the McShane.

He was transferred to a police ambulance and taken to City Hospital, where doctors held him for several hours for treatment for immersion. His wife, Alice, hurried to the hospital with dry clothes.

Two Letters Held As Woman Sleeps

Recovering from what police said was an overdose of sleeping tablets, Mrs. Alice Lawyer, 24, of St. Petersburg, Fla., was given two letters today at her cot in the City Hospital.

The missives, unopened, were written by Mrs. Lawyer shortly before she was found unconscious in a room she had recently rented in a Back Bay lodging house. They had been held for her by Sgt. Thomas Kearns until she regained consciousness.

One was addressed to a soldier serving overseas, and the other was to her mother in Florida, police said.

A third letter, addressed to the proprietor of the rooming house, was largely an apology because she did not have enough money to hire a hotel room, according to Sgt. Kearns.

She is the wife of Army Air Forces Capt. John Lawyer of St. Petersburg.

Overell Defense May Claim Victim Set Fatal Yacht Blast

SANTA ANA, Cal., June 2 (INS)—The Overell murder case in which heiress Beulah Louise Overell and her fiance, George R. Gollum, are on trial, accused of slaying the girl's wealthy parents, took another unusual turn today.

Sources close to the attorneys for the young defendants disclosed the defense will contend financier Walter E. Overell and his wife were not slain aboard their yacht in Newport Bay March 15, but were killed by a premature explosion while Overell was preparing to scuttle the boat.

The sources said testimony would be offered that Overell was displeased with his recent purchase of the yacht, the power cruiser Mary E, could not readily resell it, and so, with Gollum's aid, planned to send the vessel to the bottom of the bay to collect insurance on it.

It was indicated the defense would admit Gollum made two purchases of dynamite, part of the explosive with which the yacht was sunk, but did so at Overell's request.

However, it was declared the defense will contend Gollum had nothing to do with planting the dynamite in the ship's hold, that Overell put it there himself and in attaching it to a timing device made some mistake that caused the improvised bomb to go off ahead of time, killing him and Mrs. Overell.

Intimations of such a defense were given in questions put to prospective jurors in the first days of the trial.

William B. Beirne, attorney for Gollum, asked the veniremen:

"If, during testimony, other crimes were imputed to George Gollum, would that prejudice you against him?"

Beirne did not explain what he meant by "other crimes."

Selection of the jury has little more than gotten well under way and probably will require the entire week or even longer.

Two students were killed and two wounded in Chungking where garrison troops arrested more than 1000 suspects in a midnight raid.

Some 30,000 pro-government students staged an anti-Communist rally and parade in Shanghai despite the government ban, but there was no sign of a general uprising.

Tractor Firm's Head Threatened With Death

PEORIA, Ill., June 2 (AP)—A police guard was maintained today at the home of Louis B. Neumiller, president of the Caterpillar Tractor Co., to protect him against threatened assassination.

He said his daughter, Martha, 15, received a telephone call in which a man was quoted as saying: "Tell your father he and his kind are not fit to live. He'll get the same thing McNear got."

George P. McNear, president of the Toledo, Peroia and Western Railroad, was fatally shot from ambush near his home the night of March 10 while a strike of 13 railroad brotherhoods was in effect against his company.

MOSLEY DENIED PASSPORT

LONDON, June 2 (AP)—The government has refused a passport to Sir Oswald Moseley, who sought to go to France. The former chief of British Fascists said he had wanted a warm water swim as a treatment for thrombosis.

Three Held in Attack On 17-Yr.-Old Bride

RICH SQUARE, N. C., June 2 (AP)—A 17-year-old bride's report that a Negro tried to rape her resulted in the arrest of three Negro men, who were held today in undisclosed jails.

Seven Rich Square men last week were arrested in connection with the seizure May 23 of another Negro charged with attempting to rape a young white stenographer from the county jail at nearby Jackson. They are free on $2500 bond each.

Police Chief Frank Outland said the new case was reported by Mrs. Allen Davis Byrd, a bride of two weeks, while she was with her mother-in-law at the latter's home Laatsker, a village five miles from Rich Square.

Sheriff J. C. Stephenson said Mrs. Byrd reported a Negro came to the door, grabbed her and tried to pull her outside. She screamed and fainted, and he fled.

Solicitor Ernest R. Tyler said he was among the hundred or more men who set out to look for the woman's alleged attacker. About three hours after Mrs. Byrd was molested, two Negroes were arrested a mile and three-quarters from the house. Tyler said one would be charged with attempted rape and the other with aiding in unlawful flight.

Chief Outland reported the arrest of the third man, but disclosed no details. He said the men held were James Bowser, 23; Mack Ayers and Johnny Goode. He did not specify in what order they were arrested, nor the connection of the third man with the case.

The Negro taken from the Northampton County Jail May 23 was Godwin Bush, 22 a lumber worker, who was arrested the day before on a charge of attempted rape. He escaped from the automobile in which the white men had placed him, hid in the woods for two days, and then gave himself up. He is held in the State Prison at Raleigh.

Autopsy Ordered In Cabby Death

An autopsy was ordered today into the death of Edward King, 35, Library rd., Revere, who died at his home a few hours after being involved in a slight accident on Commonwealth ave., while driving a taxi.

According to police, King, wwho served as a special officer in Revere, was injured about six weeks ago while attempting to arrest six men in a brawl at a Shirley st., Revere, safe. At that time he was kicked in the head, police said. The men were arrested but were found not guilty.

Yesterday, King's cab was in collision with another vehicle and he bumped his nose against the windshield, causing it to bleed. He was treated at Boston City Hospital and released.

Fisheries Co. Wins Food Institute Plaque

A bronze plaque for the outstanding achievement in food technology in 1947, was presented today to the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Co. at the opening of the three-day convention of the Institute of Food Technologists at Hotel Statler.

The award was for devcelopment of a high-speed automatic fish filleting machine, which required 23 years of research and expenditures of $1,000,000. President Edward H. Cooley accepting the award, said the machine increases the yield of fish from 15 to 18 per cent over hand filletting.

months basic training, a series of options would be open to the trainee, including enlistment in the regular Army, Navy or Marine Corps, entrance into a service academy (West Point or Annapolis), enlistment in the National Guard or attendence at a college with an ROTC program.

The administrators—A commission of three members, two of them civilians, reporting directly to the President; a general advisory board representative of the public with local civilian advisory committees.

The cost—Between $1,750,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 a year.

The time—The program would be under way about one year after approval by Congress and would be fully effective in about five years. In other words, it would take that long to create a pool of men trained for duty in any emergency.

In calling upon Congress to adopt its plan "at once," the advisory group said American involvement in war could come "at any time" through some aggression in a distant part of the world.

The commission's only reference to Russia was in an appendix to the main report. It said the Soviet Union's military power is based on compulsory service in the Red Army and upon mandatory military training in the schools.

While declaring that the United Nations affords the best hope for eventually abolishing war and the use of atomic weapons, the commission said that (a) the big power veto makes it impossible for the UN to act to support itself against aggression and (b) there can be "no certain security" so long as there is no system of inspecting atomic activities in every country.

Besides Compton, the commission which spent five months in drafting its report included Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Moscow; Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric; Dr. Daniel A. Poling, clergyman and author; Judge Samuel I. Rossman, former presidential adviser; Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, industrial relations consultant; Dr. Harold W. Woods, president of Princeton University; Truman K. Gibson, lawyer, and Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, president of Georgetown University.

First Maine Woman Makes U.S. Senate Bid

LEWISTON, Me., June 2—Already holding the distinction of being the first woman to represent Maine in Congress, Rep. Margaret C. Smith (R.) today became the first of her sex to seek a seat in the U. S. Senate from the Pine Tree State.

Rep. Smith, in a formal announcement, made it plain that her Senatorial ambition was strictly contingent on Sen. Wallace H. White's decision to retire.

White, the majority floor leader, had at first refused to confirm or deny he had decided not to seek re-election in 1948, but shortly before midnight he released a statement to the press, in which he said he would not seek another term in the Senate. He is 69 years old.

Mrs. Smith, who is 48, has represented Maine's 2nd district in the National House since 1940, when she was chosen to succeed her husband, the late Clyde H. Smith. A member of the Armed Forces Committee, she was the second woman to sit on the House Naval Affairs Committee and the first to preside over it.

Her record of "firsts" includes a trip she made in overalls on a new destroyer from Bath to Boston. No woman had ever before been permitted to be a passenger on a destroyer. Later, during a wartime trip to the Pacific, she became the first woman to go to sea on an airplane carrier.

U. S. Navy Interested in New Turkish Port

ANKARA, June 2 (INS)—Son Posta, conservative Ankara newspaper, predicted a "Mediterranean Singapore" may be developed at Marmaris—southwestern Turkish port opposite the island of Rhodes.

The paper said American naval experts soon will investigate the possibilities of creating a large port at that point.

Three Die as Seaplane Dives Into St. Lawrence

MONTREAL, June 2 (INS)—Three Toronto men were killed when their seaplane crashed into the choppy waters of the St. Lawrence river while attempting a landing.

The victims were Jim Mathewson, pilot; Tucker Harris, and a mining engineer so far identified only as Smith. All were employed by the Norancon Exploration Co. of Toronto.

Humanitarians Bare Widespread Plot to Legalize Pet Vivisection

By JAMES WINCHESTER

NEW YORK, June 2—Leading humanitarians throughout the nation warned against a plot to legalize vivisection of domestic pets under cover of a pretended interest in their welfare.

Such attempts have been made recently in several state legislatures, it was disclosed. They were defeated only by the alertness of animal welfare groups which saw through the sham measures and exposed them.

These sham welfare measures have had the support of the Friends of Medical Research, Inc., a newly organized propaganda group backed by rich vivisectionists to respectabilize the "scientific" torture of helpless animals.

Advanced as "protection" against the stealing of dogs and cats for vivisection, the fake humane legislation authorizes public pounds to feed such family pets into vivisection torture chambers in unlimited quantities.

Thus, the vivisectionists seek to bolster their standing through one of the many shameful abuses that are a part of the vivisection traffic itself.

The camouflaged animal welfare measure also usually contains a clause which ostensibly would regulate vivisection, but actually seeks to license it in states where it now has no legal standing.

The vivisection lobby, backed by wealthy medical organizations and pharmaceutical manufacturers, makes its approval of this legislation dependent on the inclusion of the pound clause.

At the same time, they protect themselves from any genuine regulation by stipulating that the so-called licensing be supervised by state departments of health, which are invariably composed of doctors, and are almost always strong pro-vivisectionists.

The latest essay at these trick tactics was blocked when the California Assembly adopted last-minute amendments to the John W. Evans vivisection regulation bill.

The bill had been up for second reading with clauses which would have turned impounded animals over to vivisectionists.

After the real nature of these clauses had been bared, Speaker pro tem Thomas A. Maloney offered an amendment eliminating the pound requirement. It was then adopted by the Assembly.

Pennsylvania, Michigan and Illinois are other states in which recent attempts have been made to enact sham animal welfare legislation.

Commenting on the viciousness, as well as the deceptive nature of such pro-vivisection laws masquerading as humane legislation, Mrs. Nina Halvey, of Philadelphia, secretary of the American Anti-Vivisection Society, said:

"The passage of these laws, legalizing the sale of dogs from municipal pounds for use by vivisectors, only makes the public accomplices in this cruel practice."

Regarding the licensing phase of the vivisection program, Mrs. Eliot Tuckerman, past president of the Anti - Vivisection Investigation League of New York, said:

"A bill incorporating this provision was passed recently in New York. Although opposed by anti-vivisection groups, it was supported by some humane groups who felt that nearly any legislation, no matter how bad, is an improvement over the archaic New York state laws which specifically exempted "Experimental animals" from the protection of all humane laws.

In Chicago, Irene Castle, founder of the celebrated "Orphans of the Storm" dog shelter, hailed the defeat of the California amendment, saying:

"Under protective humane laws, unclaimed dogs are put to death painlessly. To allow them to be sold or given away for vivisection is to defeat the prime purpose of the whole impoundment process and the protection of homeless animals."

Phone Union Chief Denies Deal With Lewis

FAIRHAVEN, N. J., June 2 (AP)—Joseph A. Beirne, president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, said $100,000 received by the NFTW from John L. Lewis during the recent telephone strike was "a loan that will be paid back" and there was no deal to get the NFTW into Lewis' District 50.

In an interview at his home here, Beirne said "any report that the $100,000 was a price for switching to the AFL is baseless speculation."

HOLY CATFISH!

BUCKLIN, Mo., June 2 (AP)—The Bucklin water supply has been dangerously low the last four days because no water came in from the city reservoir. A temporary line was constructed for the emergency.

Then Neil Cannon, water superintendent, discovered the cause of the trouble was a 30-pound catfish wedged in the inlet pipe.

Harris Biography On Sale in Britain

LONDON, June 2 (AP)—Frank Harris' account of his life and loves banned in England ever since it was written more than 20 years ago, appeared in a condensed version in the bookstalls today and the publisher reported it was selling briskly.

Many of the bedroom scenes were missing, in compliance with Britain's laws against obscenity. The censored version is a condensation of the original four volumes into one.

Dinnyes Voices Peaceful Aims

BUDAPEST, June 2 (INS) — Premier Lajos Dinnyes described the objective of his Hungarian government today as "peaceful co-operation with all great powers —the United States and Britain, and especially with the Soviet Union."

It was Dinnyes' first speech since he was named premier after Ferenc Nagy resigned under Communist pressure while vacationing in Switzerland.

The speech was made to the Hungarian people after Dinnyes reviewed a military parade.

PITTSBURGH TEAMSTER TIEUP

PITTSBURGH (INS)—Twenty-five hundred AFL teamster drivers went on strike today, tieing up over-the-road freight shipments in the entire area. Picket lines were established around railroad warehouses and freight terminals, halting all long-haul shipping.

CANNED ALIVE

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—A two-year-old Polar bear cub, frolicking in a Bronx Zoo pool before several hundred spectators, made a sharp dive in the direction of a floating aluminum keg and hit the target with such force that its head pierced the thin sheeting.

Scrambling out of the water with the keg, placed in the pool to enliven the water antics of the animals, the cub clawed blindly at the cylinder about its head for an hour before zoo attendants were able to remove it—and then, uninjured, promptly plunged back into the pool.

Eastern Mass. Bus Strike Delayed a Day

The strike of 250 bus drivers and mechanics of the Melrose division of the Eastern Mass. Street Railway Co., scheduled for 4 a. m. today, has been postponed for 24 hours, pending outcome of a State-House conference this afternoon between union and company officials and the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration.

The threatened walkout would affect 100,000 commuters in 13 Greater Boston communities, who depend on the bus service for daily transportation to and from work.

Announcement of the postponement of the strike was made by Jesse Levin, president of the Melrose local of the Street Railway, and Motor Coach Operators of America, AFL, following a secret meeting of union and company officials.

42d LaGuardia Field Crash Victim Dies

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—Margaret Leddin, 31-year-old comptometer operator of New York City, died yesterday, the 42nd victim of the crash Thursday night of a United Airlines DC-4 airliner near LaGuardia Field.

Capt. Benton R. Baldwin, pilot of the plane, left Queens General Hospital yesterday to complete his convalescence at the home of another pilot, Clayton Stiles, at Roslyn, N. Y. Five other survivors remained in hospitals.

FAT?

Lose Up To 5 lbs. 1st Week Safely or No Pay

If you are overweight and flabby, you can lose weight amazingly effortlessly. There is no need to punish yourself with backbreaking exercises—no need to use dangerous reducing drugs. You can eat regularly and adequately because with the CARLTON PROGRAM you don't cut out any meals, potatoes, meats or butter—you just cut down on them.

REDUCE by this DRUGLESS method

Overweight men and women who have nothing organically wrong with them can get back to normal weight simply and quickly by following the CARLTON REDUCING PROGRAM of restricted low-calorie eating and taking CARLTON CAPSULES to assure intake of essential factors (no salts, no thyroid, no harmful drugs, no laxatives). The instructions say: Take CARLTON CAPSULES with meals, then eat a delicious CARLTON REDUCING PROGRAM low-calorie meal. Results may amaze you, because following the CARLTON REDUCING PROGRAM will cause unsightly pounds to melt away like magic—leaving no saggy, flabby or broken-down tissue.

Excess fat is unsightly and unhealthful—so don't put off getting the CARLTON REDUCING PROGRAM and a two weeks' supply of CARLTON CAPSULES for only $1.98 with the understanding that if you are not satisfied with the results, you have the privilege of returning the empty carton and we will return your money. (Mail $1.98 orders sent postpaid.)

Funny Furry, Feathery Folk Seen Down Under

By RANDOLPH HEARST

SYDNEY, Australia, June 2, (Via RCA)—Previously, I wrote about the early history of Australia and a few of the men responsible for her discovery.

Now let's take a look at this land from a geological viewpoint and see if there is not some explanation for the many odd animals that abound here.

Australia, as you know, is an island continent.

Scientists believe, however, that this was not always so and theories are advanced to the effect that at one time, millions of years ago, it was connected by a bridge of land to either Asia or South America. Across this bridge came the ancestors of the present odd and retarded animals which inhabit the continent today.

Ninety per cent of the animals native to Australia are marsupials. This is a fancy name for any mammal that carries its young in a pouch until fully developed. (The only marsupials outside of Australia are the American opossums. Why, nobody knows.)

By far the oddest animal in the present-day world is the duck-billed platypus. This astounding-looking monstrosity is about the size of a large raccoon, has webbed feet, a duck's bill, the tail and fur of a beaver and a poison spur.

While the platypus is the oldest of the lot, the spiny ant-eater, the crest-tailed marsupial rat and the marsupial mole run close seconds.

Another strange animal is the wombat, a chubby fellow that resembles a small furry pig and feeds on roots and grass.

The cutest little animal in the world is the koala.

This fuzzy marsupial (everything is a marsupial except some native rats and mice and, of course, animals brought in from the outside) resembles a big gray-skinned teddy bear with rather large ears. It has a constant expression of mild surprise on its face, as if it had just sat in a puddle of water.

The koala and the platypus are now protected by the government, for they were almost extinct. Their pelts are quite good and hunters for anyone can walk up on the clumsy little fellows and kill them.

Of course kangaroos are plentiful, and the emu seems to be surviving in good shape.

The country at one time was full of all kinds of strange opossums, beautifully marked.

Strange mice and rats abound.

A remarkable bird, master of mimicry, has a long tail that, when raised over his back, forms the shape of a perfect lyre—hence the name lyre bird. The rest of the body resembles a streamlined chicken.

Australia is indeed an amazing land. If you would like to spend a fascinating few hours some day, buy a book on the native birds and animals of this continent.

Hoover Split-Peace Plan Alarms Reds

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Dean of American Foreign Correspondents
Written Expressly for the Hearst Newspapers

GENEVA, June 2—Ex-President Herbert Hoover's recommendation that separate peace treaties be negotiated by the United States with Germany and Japan if Russia continues her obstructive tactics, now extending over a two-year period, has been something of a bombshell in Europe.

Hoover's proposal followed publication in the Hearst newspapers the last week of April of my dispatch, in which I pointed out that the only logical course for America to follow, after the failure of the Moscow conference, was to send to the Soviet government a peace ultimatum, informing the Kremlin that the United States would have to consider making a separate peace with Germany.

The former President's letter to Rep. John Taber (R.) of New York, had the effect in Moscow and throughout Europe of such an ultimatum.

Not since President Truman's address to a joint session of Congress in which he proclaimed America's new foreign policy, have governmental and political circles in Europe been so stirred as by Hoover's bold action.

Moscow has mobilized the Soviet press and radio in the Russian capital and in the Soviet occupation zone in Germany, against Hoover's proposal.

In the "great game" between the East and West for Germany, being played by the Big Four—America, Britain, France and Russia—it is being argued that if Germany would be partitioned, as she were not already partitioned, and that Europe would be definitely divided. Europe is already divided.

The thought that America may negotiate a separate peace, as it did after World War I, also is causing anxiety in Paris. The proposal was welcomed in Rome, where hopes were increased that the Italian peace treaty may be revised.

Cryptic moves are being made behind the scenes.

Dr. Heinrich Bruening, last democratic chancellor of Germany and indisputably the most outstanding and truly democratic head of a government in the 12 years Germany was a republic, has been refused permission by the State Dept. to visit Germany, say well-informed diplomatic sources in Rome.

Of all the pre-Hitler German statesmen, Bruening is the most highly respected in Germany today.

The Communists are his bitterest enemies, as are also some of the Leftist elements of the German Socialist Democratic Party.

Refusal to permit Bruening to go to Germany to see his aged mother is attributed rightly or wrongly to Leftist influences in the State Department.

Swiss papers recently gave much space to Dr. Bruening's life and career as a pre-Hitler German statesman with emphasis on his spotless character, his high Christian ideals and his true Democratic principles.

There has often been speculation as to why the last Democratic German chancellor whose character, principles, distinguished personality, profound knowledge of national economy—German economy in particular—were of so eminent a degree that he was considered worthy of being an instructor of our young men at Harvard, yet apparently was not considered in Washington of being worthy to be consulted as to the future of a Democratic Germany.

From the American viewpoint Bruening would be the ideal head of a new Democratic German republic, although Russian Communism and possibly British Socialism would oppose such a choice.

propaganda line of Dr. Josef Goebels, sneering at President Roosevelt and appealing to reputed isolationist sentiment in the Middle West.

He allegedly broadcast attacks on Jews in accordance with the Hitler doctrine, and termed his native land "Uncle Sam's flophouse for European down-and-outers."

Chandler was indicted with Robert H. Best, another foreign correspondent.

Best is in East Cambridge jail awaiting trial at a later date. Both men have been here since December.

In a preliminary hearing before Federal Court Judge Francis J. W. Ford on Chandler's sanity, Dr. Abraham Myerson, Boston psychiatrist, testified the defendant was "a neurotic and definitely a fanatic on the subject of the Jewish people."

Requested to examine Chandler by the FBI, Myerson quoted the former newsman as saying "the real issue is not treason, but is all part of a worldwide conspiracy of Jews to acquire power. People may regard me as a traitor, but history will not." The psychiatrist said he was sane.

Bay State Flier In Tokyo Crash

SPRINGFIELD, June 2—In a classroom of a secretarial school she has been attending, Mrs. Norma F. Contreras, 20, West st., Indian Orchard, today learned for the first time her husband of 18 months was killed in the crash of a U. S. Army transport plane near Tokyo last week.

She had last seen Lt. Carlos H Contreras, 21, last January when he returned from Japan on leave to celebrate his first wedding anniversary with her. Contreras, who had enlisted at 17, was acting navigator when the plane crashed and carried 40 men to death.

MUST BE SEPTIMUS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2 (AP) — Steinhart Aquarium's Willie is an odd kind of an octopus. Or maybe he isn't an octopus at all.

Robert Dempster, California Academy of Sciences biologist, discovered that Willie has only seven tentacles instead of the eight common to his breed. There is no stump to show the little fellow ever had an eighth arm.

Does that make him a septimus?

Coast Guard Tows Disabled Freighter

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—The Coast Guard Cutter Duane took in tow the American freighter Edward E. Spafford, which lost its rudder approximately 1000 miles east by north of Halifax, Nova Scotia, the Coast Guard reported here.

The Canadian salvage tug Foundation Franklyn is scheduled to relieve the Duane and proceed with the freighter to New York.

LIFE BEGINS AT 98

LONG BEACH, Cal., June 2 (INS)—Moses S. Lane, 98, wealthy retired contractor, limped to the altar with the aid of a cane and was wed to Verba Fox, 46.

ATTEND THIS HEARING

IT IS ESSENTIAL that the people of Massachusetts reduce their Federal income taxes at least $32,000,000 this year.

It is essential that the people of Massachusetts receive the SAME TAX REDUCTIONS that have already been granted to the people of California, Texas, Louisiana, Arizona, New Mexico, Washington, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Oklahoma and the Territory of Hawaii.

It is essential that Massachusetts money stay in Massachusetts to benefit Massachusetts just as California money stays in California to benefit California.

It is essential that the flight of capital, industry and employment from Massachusetts to other States BE STOPPED.

It is essential that the sales tax, gasoline tax, cigaret tax and other harmful imposts be avoided, particularly at this time when joblessness has reached the 1940 level.

FOR THESE REASONS IT IS URGENTLY NECESSARY THAT ALL PERSONS SUPPORT THE COMMUNITY PROPERTY BILL TOMORROW MORNING AT 10 O'CLOCK AT THE STATE HOUSE HEARING BEFORE THE COMMITTEE ON RULES.

As soon as any State adopts the Community Property Plan, which has been approved by the United States Supreme Court, that State automatically receives Federal income taxes ranging upward to 42.7 per cent.

In a Community Property State, a husband splits his income with his wife. He files a Federal income tax return on one-half of his earnings. She files a return on the other half.

Both stay in the low tax brackets. Both avoid heavy surtaxes. In many instances they save enough to finance a new home or to put a child through college.

This cannot be done under the present Massachusetts laws.

It can be done ONLY BY CHANGING THE LAWS and making Massachusetts a COMMUNITY PROPERTY STATE.

REP. PETER J. JORDAN, the leading Republican, who is sponsoring the Community Property Bill with Rep. David M. Cleary, the well-known Charlestown Democrat, says:

"We have heard a great deal in the past few weeks from persons who want sales taxes and gasoline taxes and heaven only knows how many other kinds of taxes.

"Persons who do not want these levies have been equally vociferous in their utterances.

"But few, if any, speakers offered anything constructive. There was no definite plan by which employment might be stimulated and prosperity increased.

"THE COMMUNITY PROPERTY BILL IS ABSOLUTELY DIFFERENT. IT IS DEFINITE. IT IS COMPLETE. IT IS HONEST AND HONORABLE.

"That is why I urge Chambers of Commerce, taxpayers' groups, women's clubs, business, professional, industrial and farm associations and all other organizations interested in helping Massachusetts to be represented at the State House hearing Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

"This is NOT the time for pussy-footing, evasion, subterfuge or SILENCE.

"This IS the time for everybody who wants Massachusetts to save as much as one hundred million dollars this year to speak out loudly and emphatically.

"There are persons who can shout themselves hoarse on measures calculated to make the people pay 10 or 20 millions MORE TAXES.

"That is not the case with the Community Property Bill.

"IT IS THE ONLY CHANCE FOR THE PEOPLE OF MASSACHUSETTS TO GET THE BIGGEST TAX REDUCTION IN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS."

EVERY BELIEVER in Massachusetts prosperity should most certainly take Representative Jordan's advice and ATTEND TUESDAY MORNING'S HEARING. To stay away is to risk obliging Massachusetts to lose $32,000,000 and, more likely, much as $100,000,000.

Fervently I'll love
But yet I would not marry.
For why? That man is poor
Who has but one in many
But crowned he is with store
That single may have any.
—ROBERT HERRICK.

WHICH IS THE LARGER country, Paraguay or Uruguay? If you can't answer that your old geography teacher certainly should be ashamed of you. Anyway, in Uruguay it is now possible to get a divorce by mutual consent "without presentation of reasons." All an unhappy married couple has to do is to go to court and say they don't want to be married any more.

SIDELIGHTS: C. V. Whitney, heir to the famous Whitney racing colors of light blue, brown cap, has a three-year-old named Mother. In all the years I have been looking at race entries I don't recall there ever being another racehorse named Mother . . . In Chatham, England, an embroidery competition was held. Two men were tied for first place. All the other competitors were women. Just goes to show that a man if he wants to, can do most anything a woman can do, and better.

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—Has there ever been a song about a girl named Rhoda? A—There was one titled "Rhoda Had A Pagoda." From the musical show "San Toy." Q—Who defined a kiss as "A secret told to the mouth instead of the ear!" A—Rostand. The old boy was surely in possession of something there. Q—All right, I give up. How do you pronounce Port Said? A—Port Sah-eed . . . Q—Edith Day was the first to play the title role in the musical "Irene" and also "Alice Blue Gown." Now tell us who was the second charmer to play this part? A—I believe it was Dale Winter.

Dale Winter

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Women who smoke are much better bridge players than women who do not smoke. That's what a student of the bridge playing situation says . . . "Why, a five-day week?" asks a Bostonian. "Does not the Bible (Deuteronomy 5-13) say: 'Six days thou shalt labor and do all thy work'" . . . The gambling on major league baseball games is terrific in Manhattan. I know of one fellow who lost $15,000 in three days of baseball betting.

ASIDES: California is in again with something for Brooklyn or Texas to try to top. A resident of the Golden State says a springer spaniel named Dooley in North Hollywood, Cal., sings so well recordings are made of his vocal efforts. The pup's most recent recording is of the "Sugar Blues" . . . Mocha coffee is once more available in Manhattan. How much of an expert on coffee are you? Could you, by tasting, tell the difference between Mocha and Java?

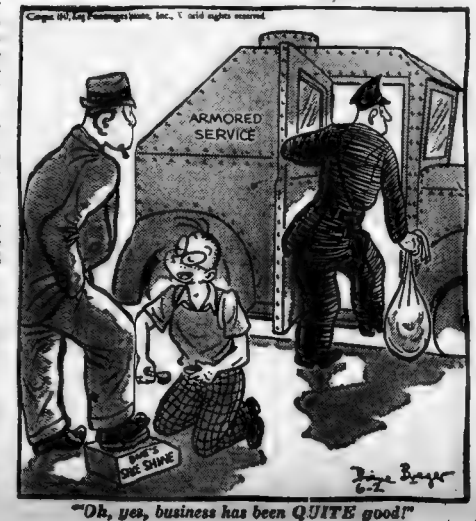
BRIEFLY: On June 19, opening day at the Monmouth Park, N. J., racetrack, the best dressed woman present will be selected and given a prize. But, wait, you haven't heard everything. They are also going to select the best dressed man present! . . . In Cleveland, Ohio, there's a firm named John H. Hamilton & Daughters. And in Yuma, Ariz., can be found a furniture store with the firm name of Fife & Wife.

ANIMAL LOVER: My girl friend says she knows a beauty shop operator who is such a lover of all animals she befriended a mouse. She discovered this mouse in the beauty shop. Some place for a mouse to be, what? Anyway, the beauty shop queen took the mouse home and has made a pet of it. She calls it Roger. It comes when called by name. Right now Roger is in disgrace. The other night when his mistress had four feminine visitors he came into the living room without being called, and caused a small panic.

PLEASE NOTE: Now I have a reader in Manville, Fla. Says she: "The population of Manville is seventy-three, but it has a gas station, grocery store, liquor store, a tavern and a real post office." What, no movie theater? . . . The King of England never permits any of the jockeys riding his thoroughbreds to use a whip. Good for him. The way some of our American jockeys beat horses in the stretch is terrible to behold. The S.P.C.A. should do something about it.

THAT DOG AGAIN: Note it stated the readers of gas meters have a list of "bad dogs" located at various houses. This list is presented to new men on the route for their protection. Most delivery men have such a list. Our dog was once placed on the grocery man's "bad dog" list. Learning of this, my girl friend was highly indignant. So she "introduced" our dog to all delivery men. She would say: "Timmy, meet the grocery boy."

Timmy would wag his tail in acknowledgement. From then on that delivery boy was allowed to enter the yard without trouble. But Timmy still barked and growled at men to whom he hadn't been introduced. A remarkable animal.



"Oh, yes, business has been QUITE good!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate

THREE OF the best authorities have compared the authentic handwriting of Henry Wallace with the handwriting of the Guru letters.

Westbrook Pegler

All three of these men give their opinions that the actual and indisputable Wallace letters and the Guru documents were written by the same person.

These experts are Clark Sellers and John L. Harris, both of Los Angeles, and George J. Lacey of Houston, Tex. The examination of disputed documents is their profession. Their judgments are respected by the courts.

To relieve these men of any suspicion that they sought the consultation or wanted publicity, I will say they did not. The problem was presented to them and the initiative was mine, not theirs.

In fact, Mr. Sellers, the first of them to be consulted, gave his professional opinion only on condition that his name be not mentioned except in case of a contest. In that event he would come forward and defend his conclusion that Wallace did write the letters.

CHARLES MICHELSON, the head press agent of the Roosevelt party through 1944, described these letters as "silly."

If your little boy wrote such monkey business you would take him to the doctor. But when you reflect that the supposed writer of this confusion was next in line for the Presidency of the United States and with the war on and our own country already committed, this stuff is terrifying.

Maybe Roosevelt didn't know the existence of this writing at the time that he compelled the 1940 Democratic convention to nominate him.

If these are the same letters that Charlie Mike saw and I think they are, then I say Charlie Mike went a long, long way for his client, the Democratic party, and took a terrible chance on the safety of the United States when he decided, without expert advice, that they were of at least "doubtful authenticity."

ROOSEVELT WAS even more terribly guilty because he knew he would die any moment and that Wallace would then take over.

Later, Roosevelt fired Jesse Jones from the Department of Commerce which included control of the R. F. C., "the greatest bank in the world," and nominated Henry for the job.

He may have figured that he was playing it safe because Congress certainly wouldn't confirm Henry until the R. F. C. was carefully removed from his reach, which is exactly what happened.

MR. SELLERS was asked to examine and compare these documents. He did it as a professional service and gave his opinion accordingly.

Mr. Harris and Mr. Lacey were invited to consultation by Mr. Sellers. Mr. Harris came to the conclusion that Wallace wrote the Guru letters.

Mr. Lacey's inspection was "somewhat cursory" but nevertheless he "reached the opinion that the questioned documents were all written by Wallace."

On reconsideration, all three gave permission to me to name them as my authorities in the case.

NOW, FROM a leading authority on Yoga, the Oriental philosophy or religion which appears to have held the interest of the Guru letters' author for a time, I have another expert opinion that Nicholas Konstantin Roerich, the Russian artist, who was Wallace's teacher, is not a Yoga scholar.

However that may be, Henry Wallace did use the people's money to send a strange expedition to Mongolia and China in 1934, soon after he became Secretary of Agriculture, with Roerich in charge.

Ostensibly this was an expedition to collect the seed of drought-resisting grasses. But stories in English language papers published in China indicated that the expedition had mysterious purposes and that old Roerich applied to the Fifteenth U. S. Infantry in Tien Tsin for rifles, revolvers and ammunition.

He was turned down until the regimental command was over-ruled from Washington. Also, there was strife among the members of the group.

ONE OF the letters mentions a crystal soul behind living blue eyes above a cleft beard. I have never seen Roerich, who is called both a leader and a master and, sometimes, apparently, a ruler. I understand that he is now in India.

But a photograph taken at the time that this mass-production picture-painter, who casually mentions more than 3000 pictures, was chasing grass seed over China shows an old guy with squint eyes, possibly blue, and a cleft, or two-legged beard of whiskers, somewhat in the style affected by old Admiral Von Tirpitz of Germany and the standard political portrait on the walls of our chop suey joints.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 2—Pat O'Brien is being sought for the star role in "The Life of Mayor William O'Dwyer." Yes, Mayor O'Dwyer has given permission to P. R. C. to film his life story. The deal was made with Harry Brandt of Marathon Pictures and Harry Thomas, president of P. R. C.

Brandt, you may remember, is the theater owner who got himself in the headlines when he named a list of prominent stars as poison at the box office.

The plan is to film Mayor O'Dwyer's life in New York and Brooklyn. It's a career story as fantastic as anything ever written by Horatio Alger. O'Dwyer was born in Ireland and landed at Ellis island, an immigrant boy, eventually to become a brigadier general, and later mayor of the biggest city in the world.

Mayor O'Dwyer

Pat O'Brien will visit Mayor O'Dwyer in a few weeks and it seems likely, because of their friendship, he'll accept the offer.

WHEN ARLEEN WHELAN made up with Hugh Owen and went back to New York with him, she said she'd never let another movie job come between her and her husband again.

Well, she won't have to in accepting the part of the other girl in "The Senator Was Indiscreet" with William Powell. Since most of the first part of the movie will be shot in New York, producer Nunnally Johnson is sending a dress designer back there to whip up Arlene's clothes.

Following shortly are George Kaufman, the director, and Ella Raines, with Peter Lind Hayes taking off after his broadcast. The movie will be finished in Hollywood, but by that time Hugh will be free to come back with Arleen.

PERSONALLY, I've been playing a watching game as far as Viveca Linfors is concerned. On the few occasions I have seen her she struck me as no ball of fire. But you never can tell by lookin' how they'll be emotin'—and the preview cards following the Warner sneak preview of "Night Unto Night" were wonderful.

It isn't fair to keep comparing every Scandinavian actress with Ingrid Bergman. But Miss Linfors has much of the wholesome glamor that has made Ingrid No. 1 lady on the screen today. Anyway, Jack Warner has such high hopes for her that she will be starred in "To the Victor", which I told you about. This is going to be a special picture in every way, showing the horrors of war and pleading peace for the peoples of the earth for all time.

NOT ALL THE NEWS about attractive Sondra Rodgers this morning is that she gets the role of Susan Hayward's mother in "Tap Roots"—a part for which Judith Anderson was also being considered.

Off the screen, Miss Rodgers is co-starring in one of Hollywood's most interesting romances with a gentleman who is rich, unattached and very important in our industry. Excuse please, if I don't mention his name because there may be more important news about their engagement to break soon.

Matrimony in the offing or not, Sondra is deeply interested in her screen career. She's well established on the Broadway and London stage although this Walter Wanger picture is the best screen break she has had.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Irene Wrightsman, the pretty daughter of Charles Wrightsman, oil millionaire, is leaving for Europe very soon to get her child. The baby has been with Irene's husband, Freddie McAvoy, international playboy, in Paris ever since the Wrightsman girl went there to see him and talk over their matrimonial status.

The shoe was certainly on the other foot where she was concerned. He left her and was seen everywhere in Europe with Barbara Hutton. Then he came back to Hollywood and begged Irene to come back to him, but she refused. Reason—she is in love with Robert Stack.

Now Freddie has lost Irene and Barbara, too. She married his best friend, Prince Troubetskoy.

Definitely Mike Todd and Joan Blondell have separated. This is not a rumor. I verified it with the gentleman myself. He said he was sorry to report that the romance is all over, and that this time it is final.

He said he wants now to concentrate on work and really start from scratch.

"When you're too much in love," said Mike, "you can't work."

However, there's no truth in the report that Miss Blondell asked him to take his cars out of the garage. They're still there.

Phyllis Brooks writes she is expecting another baby in August. She says she and Torbet McDonald are supremely happy and she is taking instructions, with the hope she may be admitted into the Catholic church, which is her husband's faith.

Phyllis Brooks

She and McDonald lived in Cambridge all the time he was completing his law course at Harvard. Now he has finished and is in the legal department of the Eric Johnston office.

HARRY SHERMAN has his fighting clothes on about "Carmen of the West." He says he will go to court and fight for the right to make his picture.

That's in answer to my item saying Harry Cohn registered the title "Carmen" with the Hays office several years ago.

Says Harry Sherman: "My story is an entirely different version. The name 'Carmen' is in public domain, and I'm going to fight for the right to make it."

Well, as for me, I'm not getting into the battle. Both Harrys are friends of mine.

Van Johnson is just plumb "tennis happy" which is a second cousin to being slap happy, and he's so crazy about the game he doesn't care who knows it. Unless you know your top players you can hardly carry on a conversation with Van.

July 1 he is putting on a tournament of the best players in the movie colony and already Gary Cooper, Greg Bautzer, Tony Bartley (Deborah Kerr's husband), Louis Jourdan, Ralph Jordan and tennis champ Frank Parker, are entered.

Van is having silver cups made up for the winners of the singles and doubles tournaments, and all games will be played on the courts of the home he and Evie just bought.

WELL, now it's France which is trying to fight Hollywood's lure for foreign screen favorites.

The leading French stars have formed an association—the purpose being to keep the actors out of Hollywood. Jean Gabin, Danielle Darrieux, and others have agreed not to take any job in any country outside France unless they have the approval of the association. I suppose that means England as well as Hollywood, although I rather think this little plan is aimed at American films.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Virginia Weidler, who has been married since last March to Lionel Krissell, introduced her bridegroom to her friends at a party at the Beverly Tropics.

Frank Fay will ask to have his marriage to Barbara Stanwyck annulled. They have been divorced for at least 10 years, but since they were married in the Catholic Church, an annulment probably will be impossible.

Ava Gardner and Greg Bautzer are still torrid.

Gloria Franklin, pretty actress, and Sid Silvers will soon be shopping for wedding rings.

Stuart Barthelmess says he was only trying to get Carol Bjorkman, the model, a job. Sonja Henie is in New York and everything is wonderful.

Betty Avery Drown, who was was at the Arthur Stebbins' dinner party with Tony Martin, tells me she sails for Europe next week, to spend the summer. Joe Drown, her ex-husband, the wealthy hotel man, has consented to keep their baby, so she can have a vacation.

Tony sang and sang. A Negro piano player had an arrangement for "Begin the Beguin" which was out of this world, and which he and Tony should record. George Jessel and George Burns were in fine fettle and very funny. They sang to Benny Oakland's music. Benny played some original compositions that were enchanting.

Buddy De Sylva and Marie dancing cheek to cheek at the Chanteclair. They held hands and are apparently happier than they have ever been. That Marie is a swell gal, and deserves happiness after her loyalty and good sense in dealing with a deplorable situation.

Ben Blue has hired two private detectives to locate the meanest thieves in town. They stole four of his highly pedigreed great dane puppies. The dogs are only two weeks old and should be with their mother. I hope Ben catches the thieves. The great value of the puppies is only secondary.

Betty Grable goes home tomorrow or Tuesday and expects to be up and around when Harry James gets back. Harry has telephoned her practically every day.

George Holland

Boston After Dark

MONDAY MUSINGS: The next time the Reds take over a country, America should ordain another Memorial Day and call it Atlantic Charter Day . . . It occurred to us while watching the antics of Joe E. Lewis at the Latin Quarter's Sunday night premiere that Joe has a perfect theme song for Atlantic Charter Day . . . That would be the Lewis lament "Sam You Made the Pants Too Long" . . . The pants of the memorable lost Atlantic Charter were so long that Stalin has been laughing ever since . . . To make Atlantic Charter Day perfect, Henry A. Wallace should write the proclamation.

BEFORE RETURNING to Comedian Lewis and consideration of Boston's minor blessing in playing host to two excellent comedians, Lewis and Ray Bolger, at the same time, your reporter would like to remind all readers that a very important hearing is to take place this month in Washington . . . Merely by coincidence, the hearing falls on Bunker Hill Day eve—June 16.

It is to be a congressional hearing, but open to the public, and its purpose will be to try to single out the Hollywood Reds who have been beguiling the public, ofttimes with the help of the powers-that-were in the Capitol, to follow the Communist Party line through the seductive appeal of the movies . . . Between now and June 16, you will be advised that Congress is embarking on a "witch-hunt," with Red-baiters in full command . . . Do not, please, believe it.

THE MEN OF the congressional committee who have been delving into the doings of Hollywood's clever Reds are good Americans, and better than most of their detractors . . . They have had the help of other good Americans in the movies who know the score, and have been tortured by their helplessness in combating the potent clique of Communists who virtually own the writers' union, and have life or death sway over its individual members.

ALL GOOD AMERICANS can pray that some facts emerge from this probe of a scandalous situation of pseudo-Americans making from $2000 to $5000 a week from the dimes of the people they have been trying to betray . . . Names will come out of this hearing probably.

These names should be written down . . . Later, when they appear in the screen credits of major motion pictures, alert Americans will be able at least to weigh the cute, little propaganda asides which these men and women seem able invariably to weave into their manuscripts.

ONCE EVERY few years, this column speculates about the inability of writers for both the movies and the stage to create a hero or heroine who leaned to the Right in his or her politics . . . It became the thing at the time the Federal Theater was born to fashion all heroes as "idealists" fighting the big "reactionaries" who ruled American business and politics in their peculiarly unvarying "fascistic" way.

IN SOME RECENT MOVIE perhaps a swing to the Right in heroes or heroines has been evidenced. (If so, we would be grateful if someone would send in the name of the film) . . . The theater has had one notable exception, Father in "Life With Father" . . . But even Clarence Day was depicted as a big, awkward oaf of a fellow and funny for his intolerances . . . "Life With Father," however, will take the record for a Broadway run this month, so there must be a tremendous public which enjoys the nostalgia of the American way of life as practiced in our good families in the Mauve Decade . . . We thought that the Republican sweep in the last election might inspire some writers to go "Rightist" on Broadway . . . If anything of the sort in a trend has happened, we have missed it.

AS FOR JOE E. LEWIS, his very adult brand of humor panicked first-night audience at the Quarter, as was expected . . . Joe E. (for ever-young) is a puckish chap with a boyish face, and is the Peck's bad boy of the night club circuit . . . His humor is original and fast . . . Joe E. (for-ever-young) is —under, say, 30 . . . But there is none like him in the business . . . His natural, unspoiled style of delivery makes him a character whom the more prudish even can hardly resent.

Washington Scene

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON, June 2—Mr. Clarence W. (Slats) Rafferty, the eminent safecracker, came in to consult me the other day on a matter of constitutional law. Mr. Rafferty is very much interested in the law because he has to spend so much of his time avoiding it.

"I trust you will pardon this here intrusion," he began in his best Gene Tunney Harvardese, "but I got a few thoughts on my mind. You read about that mouthpiece who went besmerk, or amucker, or whatever you call it, down in municipal court and blasted a few parties before he got ventilated hisself?"

"You mean," I said prissily, "the disbarred attorney who ran amok and shot and killed a policeman and a clerk before he was himself bullet-riddled?"

"That's what I was sayin', Einstein," replied Mr. Rafferty. (Anyone who can compose a simple declarative sentence is Einstein to him.) "Well, just because of that they want to pass a law givin' coppers the right to play patty-cake all over you to see if you have a roscoe stashed in a pants pocket."

"You are sometimes a little difficult to follow," I murmured, "but I presume you are referring to the bill by Sen. C. Douglass Buck, of Delaware, giving policemen the right to search suspected persons for firearms?"

"That I am, Einstein—that I am," replied Mr. Rafferty. "It is a very meretricious Bill."

"A what?" I gasped.

"Meretricious. It means it ain't got no merit. I picked it out of a speech that Warden Lawes give to us once while I was doing post-graduate work up there. What do you think I am, a dummy?"

"Not conversationally," I said. "Anyway, I can understand why you would be opposed to such a bill. I understand you frequently carry articles which are somewhat illegal, such as fuses and a pail of soup."

"The kind of soup I use in my profession,' retorted Mr. Rafferty, "is not carried in pails. What do you think we crack a keister with—chicken gumbo?"

I confessed I was not up on the fine points of safecracking.

"That is just where you are dead wrong, Einstein," retorted Mr. Rafferty. "It is the legit guys who will really be worrying. A hood knows he is liable to be tapped any minute and is careful about what he carries. But a legit guy goes around with all sorts of stuff in his pockets he wouldn't want no outsider to be ganderin' at.

"They could even work it on the courts. Many times decisions are given by them black-robed beagles which would mean millions on the stock market if some sharpshooter got advance notice. He could wreck a whole industry and ruin all the stockholders, big and little."

"No cop would dare search a judge," I objected.

"Maybe not. But these courts have messengers. If there was enough dough in it you could find someone who would take a chance and work a frisk on the messenger. And," Mr. Rafferty continued, "it could even be worked on the confidential messengers of Congressmen. If a guy had the advance word on some legislation that was being quietly cooked up he could make a killing."

I said it reminded me of the supreme court decision a couple of weeks ago which upheld the FBI in ransacking a suspect's home without a search warrant. Mr. Rafferty agreed it was the very same thing.

"You legit guys shrug this stuff off because you don't think it applies to you," he said, "but you're going to get an awful kick in the pants if you don't watch out. The way they're goin' about it here now is just the way they took the rights of privacy away from everybody in Germany and Russia.

"Well, keep your coat buttoned, sucker!"

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School

Q—How high should the hills be made for cucumbers?

A—This is a common question among new gardeners. When we say to plant cucumbers in hills we actually mean spot planting. Cucumbers should be planted on a level with the ground the same as any other crop.

Q—How can I get rid of the Japanese Bamboo? I have tried weed killer without success.

A—This plant can become a pest and can only be cleaned out by digging out all the underground shoots. If allowed to grow at all, it will persist.

Q—Will coal ashes harm tomatoes?

A—No. I have seen some fine crops of tomatoes grown on soils where a limited amount of coal ashes has been worked in.

Q—Can vegetables be grown on sod land that was plowed this spring, and not harrowed yet because of wet weather?

A—Spring plowed sod land can be used if it is well harrowed to hill back the grass. Keep working the surface but do not dig deep. As soon as the weather warms up the sod will rot and supply humus.

Q—Is the same analysis of fertilizer such as 5-8-7 or 5-8-10 good for all vegetables?

A—A complete fertilizer such as 5-8-7 can be used for general crop purposes. Leafy vegetables such as lettuce and spinach will benefit by an extra side-dressing of nitrate of soda.

Q—Is the roto-tiller type of plow practical on a small farm?

A—For small areas it works out very well. The only disadvantage of this type of equipment is that it cannot be used for any other purpose except tilling the soil.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

COURAGE AND HEROISM in freedom's cause are equally attractive in friend or foe. Allen W. Dulles, of the OSS, who was in contact with the German underground throughout the war, has written the story of the indomitable band of men and women in Germany, even in the army, who opposed Hitler, who tried to kill him, and who often paid with their lives for their faith and courage.

Unfortunately, some of these people were arrested by the occupying forces, even by the Americans. As Dulles says in "Germany's Underground" (Published by MacMillan:

"There was an anti-Nazi underground working in Germany, despite the general impression to the contrary. It developed out of heterogeneous groups that finally achieved a working unity and reached into the vitals of the army and the government services. Professional men, church and labor leaders, and high commanding officers on various fronts participated.

Even Field Marshals Rommel and Von Kluge finally had a share, but this was late in the day, when they saw that military victory had eluded them. But there were others of a very different moral fiber, both civilian and military, who were not opportunists and who had fought Hitlerism for many years.

"The story of these anti-Nazi Germans who risked their lives deserves to be told. It is not merely a story of a plot. It is, indeed, incontrovertible proof that even in a totalitarian state the struggle for individual liberty does not cease. The knowledge that this was so in Nazi Germany can inspire all those who hope and work to build something better in the Germany of tomorrow."

THAT NEEDED to be said. Too many haters can never see anything good in any German. I once heard one of these vindictive people say:

"There have never been any liberals in Japan," which is a denial of the existence of men who were killed for what we in the western world are sure is right. So those who have denied the existence of good Germans, because under Hitler there were so many bad ones, deny the grace of God.

Dulles adds an important and interesting chapter to history. He tells of the plotting that went on to rid Germany and the world of Hitler and his gang and he concludes:

"It is easy to criticize the German underground for its delays, disunities, vacillations, and ultimate failure. But in a police state such as Hitler and Himmler organized it is not likely that men will do much better than a Beck, a Goerdeler, a Moltke, a Lewschner or a Stauffenberg."

THE HUMAN RACE is much the same everywhere, as different as are its varieties of social and political organizations. Our freedom and our customs are not the product of environment as much as they are the fruition of qualities which inhere in all human beings.

That the Anglo-Saxons chose freedom rather than security unless they were free from invasion. Now that England is not free from invasion, liberty is in peril. Security becomes more important, more pressing. So it was with Germany. Dulles says of this:

"Those who expect the great majority of the German people to accept defeat, admit their collective guilt and rise up tomorrow as trusted members of a democratic and peaceful European society, are deluding themselves—they are deluding themselves both as regards the national characteristics of the Germans and as regards the manner in which human beings, German or non-German, react to conditions such as those in Germany.

It is equally naive to expect much from programs of re-education imposed by a military occupation."

When men cease to fear, they will become free. For it is the terror of fear that drives men into the acceptance of the very slavery they fear.

doubtedly was the result of environment and circumstances, but all human beings love and seek liberty, some courageously, some in fear.

A nation that produced Goethe and Schiller, Mozart and Beethoven, Karl Marx and Ferdinand LasSalle is not without a lust for liberty. Yet that same Germany has for centuries been the battlefield of Europe, the crossroad between east and west and north and south.

England and America could risk liberty without security as long

Fugitive Bride Hides on Farm

CHARLOTTE, Mich., June 2 (INS)—Mrs. Eleanor Whitehead, 24, strawberry blonde who walked away from her Newark, N. J., wedding reception and wound up in Michigan, secluded herself in a remote farm home today and refused to devulge her marriage plans.

An International News Service correspondent who called at the farm home of Mrs. Marie Gildersleeve, in a little-travelled section of southern Michigan, was told he could not talk with the runaway bride concerning her marriage to William Whitehead, whom she deserted Thursday when their marriage was four hours hold.

Asked whether her guest planned to return to her husband, Mrs. Gildersleeve retorted: "The story is closed."

Iraq Outlaw Fleeing To Iran After Battle

BAGHDAD, Iraq, June 2 (AP)—The Iraqui defense ministry said that Mullah Mustafa El Barzani, powerful chieftain of 15,000 displaced Iraqui-Kurdish tribesmen, had been driven out of Iraq and was fleeing through Turkey to Iranian Azerbaijan with more than 1000 armed followers.

A ministry spokesman said Mullah's group was almost completely surrounded by Iraqui army troops and after a short battle, in which at least nine tribesmen were killed, crossed into Turkey. Iraqui army sources said they believed Mullah's group either would join Azerbaijan Kurdish tribesmen or go to Russia.

Owner Foils Thief By Sleeping in Car

CHICAGO, June 2 (AP)—Thomas McVickers, 43, after months of waiting, finally received his new automobile but he didn't have a garage for safekeeping. So he slept in it all night—almost.

About 5 a. m. he heard someone trying to remove hubcaps and fender guards. He fired a pistol at a fleeing form, and police hours later said they detained a slightly wounded man who told them he was McVickers' target.

Canning Season Draws Near; Strawberries First

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

THERE'S NO PRIDE comparable to that a woman feels when family and friends proclaim the virtues of her home-canned foods. In addition to home canning's taste appeal, there is economy, which helps guard savings accounts. That women recognize these facts is attested by recent surveys which show that 61 per cent of homemakers plan to do more home canning this year than they did last.

All types of jars and caps are available in plentiful supply, including porcelain-lined zinc caps and two-piece metal lids for Mason jars and ideal or lightning type jars with glass lids and wire bails.

On the market also is a new two-piece metal dome lid, for the Mason jar, which has the important advantage of testing easily and positively for a sure vacuum seal. It consists of a newly designed metal band, more easily tightened and removed, and metal lid, the lid being made with a dome in it. To test the vacuum seal, it is necessary only to press the center of the lid. If the dome is down, the jar is sealed. It's as simple as that.

Wise homemakers will purchase plentiful supplies of their favorite jars and caps and have them ready while markets are offering fresh fruit and produce.

We think this is a good time to include in the column some recipes that readers have been asking for. So let's start off with Strawberry Jam. It's so easy to make jams and jellies these days with the new scientifically tested recipes that supply natural fruit pectin in just the right proportion to insure a perfect sweet spread every time. Make the most of the strawberry season while it's here.

STRAWBERRY JAM

4 cups prepared fruit
6½ cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

Crush completely, one layer at a time, about 2 quarts fully ripe strawberries. Measure 4 cups pulp into a large saucepan. Measure and set aside. Place saucepan holding fruit over high heat. Add powdered fruit pectin and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim, ladle quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once. Makes about ten 6-ounce glasses.

When canning vegetables, be sure that only fresh, sound products are used. The steam pressure cooker method is recommended for all non-acid vegetables because it destroys all organisms causing spoilage. And may we again remind you to boil for 10 minutes all canned non-acid vegetables before serving or even tasting them. Before starting to can vegetables, read over your recipes carefully; and also be sure of your instructions for sealing various types of jars.

CANNING ASPARAGUS

Wash, remove loose scales. Grade for uniformity. Place asparagus in wire basket or square of thin cloth, hold in boiling water which reaches just below tips, for 3 minutes. This prevents overcooking the tips. Pack upright in hot jars. Cover with cooking water, add 1 teaspoon salt to each quart. Seal or partly seal according to the type of jar you are using, and process for 40 minutes in a steam pressure cooker at 10 pounds. If you do not have a pressure cooker and have to use a hot water bath, process for 3 hours. Remove from canner and complete seal if necessary.

CANNING BEETS

Beets should be canned before they grow too large. Small beets should be canned whole. Leave on 1 inch of stem and all of the root while blanching. This will prevent loss of color.

SWEET GIRL graduate on the threshold of womanhood and world conquest is a beautiful sign this month as she smiles acceptance of her parchment recognition of academics well done. A far cry from the graduation dresses of old . . . this 20th century miss appears in a white pique New York matriculation dress with triangular seaming at the shoulders. And the buttons . . . miniature gold footballs for her gridiron hero . . . complement the gold kid belt.—R. M.

Wash and boil 15 minutes until skin loosens. Slip skin. Pack into hot jars, add 1 level teaspoon salt to each quart, filling with boiling water, seal or partly seal according to the type of jar you are using, and process for 40 minutes in a steam pressure cooker at 10 pounds, or for 2 hours in hot water bath. Remove from canner and complete seal if necessary.

Triple-Action Nail Cream

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

IT CERTAINLY ISN'T THE FAULT of the cosmetic chemical researchers . . . those beauty geni of vivid vision . . . if every last mother's daughter hasn't the most beautiful hands in the world. They try hard enough to provide the wherewithal to make hands . . . about which poets speak and have spoken . . . the deservedly important focus of a woman's appeal.

And so does the beauty editor who brings these innovations to the awareness of feminine concern. One such amazing "something new under the sun" beauty item is a brand new nail cream with a triple-action that does three jobs at one time . . . removes nail polish, softens cuticle and lubricates nails!

Yes, we were a doubting Thomasina, too, until we tried it on our own finger nails . . . and it is all that it claims to be and more. A snow-white cream . . . delightfully scented . . . it takes off as many as four coats of nail polish and two coats of overcoat in two minutes after it is applied.

In addition . . . it helps those cuticles remain soft and tidy . . . helps to lubricate the nails thereby preventing dry, brittle, easy-to-crack and easy-to-split nails. That's because it contains no acetone, acids, ether or alcohol. The solvent in this amazing new cream is new to the industry. It is a gentle solvent . . . which cannot dry or dissolve the natural oils that nature intended for the nails.

AURA OF DELICATE FRAGRANCE

But its ingredients do dissolve . . . yes, actually dissolve, the nail polish on the finger nail. You simply pat the cream on the finger nails and cuticle of one hand at a time. Allow the cream to remain on the finger nails and cuticle a minute or two . . . permitting its lubricating and conditioning qualities to benefit . . . then wipe nails and cuticles clean with cloth or tissue. No more of that smelly smell hovering about nails. Rather, they not only are clean and the cuticles soft . . . but they have an aura of delicate fragrance about them.

The result of amazing research . . . this nail cream also prevents hangnails . . . which are merely a drying condition of the cuticle or skin caused often by the use of highly volatile liquid solvents.

Nails are keratin . . . the very same as hair. The proper oils soften the hair . . . the proper oils lubricate finger nails. And this new cream lubricates as it cleans the nails . . . because it contains special oils and softening ingredients. It also removes nicotine stains from fingers. Try it on your own and on your boy friend's or husband's hands . . . and surprise him!

If you are troubled . . . like so many women are with dry, brittle and splitting nails and cuticles . . . you'll find this new nail polish remover and nail conditioner cream the most unusual hand beauty item you've ever used.

Even after the polish has been removed . . . continue to use the cream as a cuticle softener for lovelier, longer and stronger finger nails. Pretty finger nails are the index of pretty hands . . . or do you keep your hands always gloved?

For the name of this amazing new cream to remove nail polish and condition and soften nail cuticle, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, daily except Sunday, or write me, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PROUDLY this model slips her hands in these gloves . . . because they are made of Aris' new "nyladoe," a double-woven, durable nylon fabric that has the feel and finish of the finest doeskin . . . and which, like nylon hose, wash and dry in an hour, won't wrinkle and won't shrink. But we're certain that this model would be able to display proudly hands just as beautiful . . . with fingernails in perfect condition. For that achievement there is an amazing new nail cream.

Can Answer Own Query

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: A few weeks ago my girl friend called up and asked me to go out with her and her boy friend. She had another boy for me and it was the first time I had ever met either of these boys.

Some days later, her boy friend told her that he didn't want to go with her any more because he liked another girl. She asked him who it was, and he said it was me. He has called me up several times and asked me to go out, and I have done it a few times, but my girl friend doesn't know about it. She told me she would never speak to me again if I went out with him.

He wants me to go steady with him, but I haven't given him an answer yet. I think he is very nice, and I would like to go with him. Should I give up my friendship with this girl and do so, or not? "D. L."

Dear "D. L.":

I think the best way to answer your question would be to tell you to do exactly what you would want another girl to do, if these circumstances were reversed. That is, if you had a boy friend who suddenly wanted to brush you off in favor of some girl to whom you had introduced him, how would you feel about it, and what would you think that girl should do? Would you think she should be your loyal friend and refuse to take your boy friend away from you, or would you consider it perfectly all right for her to walk blithely off with the young man without giving you a thought?

If you answer that question honestly in your own mind, you'll have the answer to your own question. And how you act on that answer depends on what kind of girl you are.

Confidently Dressed

LOOK CAREFULLY at the women who gather in the smart restaurants. The young girls will shine for their look of freshness. The young matrons will stand out for their smart sophistication. But it's the older women who will look poised and important, smoothly sure of themselves in their well-made, elegant clothes.

Maturity brings with it a quiet confidence and this underlines a woman's beauty and makes it important.

A smart costume is sketched today. Designed by Villi Sigmund, it is made of black taffeta and has a white lace overblouse. The white sequin and bead embroidery of the lapels is repeated on the draped black taffeta swag that molds the blouse to the hips. The jacket, fitted in back, ties at the front with a set-in belt.

How WONDER BREAD Helps Build Strong Bodies 8 Ways!

Amazing Wonder Bread Ranks with Meat, Milk and Fish in Certain Growth and Energy-Building Contents (as stated at right)

THE foundation of good health is good nutrition. And the foundation of good nutrition is good food.

And that means 3 good meals a day. Don't short-change your child at breakfast as so many mothers do. Make the morning meal a big meal—to start the day right. Plenty of good food. Plenty of Wonder Bread.

Because Wonder Bread gives to your child 8 of the body-building elements that Nature uses to build a good health foundation.

See for yourself the 8 ways Wonder Bread helps build strong bodies. Naturally, you want your child to have every advantage—so serve plenty of Wonder Bread.

And your child will love Wonder Bread. Because it tastes so good. So good because so fresh. Plain or toasted.

For Wonder Bread is doubly fresh. Fresh when you buy it and fresh when you eat it.

Because Wonder Bread is slo-baked—baked 13% longer than many ordinary kinds for lasting freshness.

So get nourishing doubly fresh Wonder Bread from your grocer today. And see that your child gets plenty of Wonder Bread for breakfast—and every meal!

R. I. Cops Plan Ouster Appeal

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 2—After the Rhode Island General Assembly failed to pass a bill permitting an appeal to the Superior Court, the 13 Providence policemen discharged following a probe of petting revels in Roger Williams Park will appeal to the State Supreme Court, it was disclosed today.

State Sen. William B. Sweeney of Warwick, counsel for the 13 and sponsor of the bill, declared the high court appeal was "the only alternative" to the negative action by the assembly.

He declared that 32 cities and towns outside Providence provide the right of appeal to superior court from decisions of municipal boards.

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—The stork has a habit of ringing twice for this postman and his wife.

A fourth set of twins was born to Mrs. Charles Cummo, 34, and her letter carrier husband who said:

"I guess I'll have to buy a farm."

It's an old story to Annette Marie, 9, eldest child, who summed up the arrival of her two new sisters in a shout to a passing friend:

"Marilyn, more babies!"

The Cummos have been married 10 years.

JAP JOBLESS 2,561,000

...OFFICE SAFE

Federal postal inspectors and police today were seeking a small safe, containing $2200 in cash, postal notes and stamps, and the thieves who lugged it away from Friedman's Drug Store in Warren st., Roxbury, where a sub-postal station is maintained.

"I wuz thinkin'...."

by Izzy Ort

Fer too many weeks now I been kabitzin' around, playin' the part of the jester an' runnin' wid the winds as the poet said. I jest looked over my business records; the laff parade is over. I, Ort has gotta settle down ta hard work ta keep his fun factory churnin' or else, everybody goes home ta mudder! So, I'm tunin' up my horn ta git the ears of every adult male in this here village wat likes ta get outa the house now an' then. If yer not workin', don't be settin' around the house all day watchin' the little woman do her chores; take yerself down town an' have some fun and relaxation at Ort's Grille. Get yer mind off the small problem of havin' no dough. Ya don't need much wid me. If you are workin', then ya need ta get away from the grind now and then. Ya know wat all work did ta Jack; it made him a dull boy an' who likes dull boys? It's funny times we're livin' in; the whole world is wearin' an oversize neurosis an' the only cure fer it is fun, laffs an' relaxation. I manage ta get MY relaxation—I keep tellin' myself! Slip into ya jackets an' get down ta the subway fer a few hours of fun at the gayest, gay afternoon an' night spot in town, Ort's, 25 Essex St. Advt.

Smart Set Fete Future Bride

By BETTY ALDEN

USEFUL GIFTS for her future home and pretty luxuries for her trousseau will be showered on Patricia Eames, Boston society bride-to-be ,at the tea and shower Mrs. Walter Sutter and Mrs. Duke Dorney of Beacon st. are giving for her Friday in the French Room of the Ritz Carlton. Pat is the future bride of Edward Francis Mahony of Beacon st. They will be married June 18 in Boston.

Patricia Eames

Guests at the bridal shower will be Mrs. James J. Curry, mother of the bride-to-be, and Mrs. Thomas Harrison Mahony, the groom's mother. Also Mrs. Harold G. Kern, Mrs. John U. Lemmon, Jr., Mrs. Leslie Morgan Drury, Mrs. John Carpenter, Anne Griess, Mrs. Ernest Howes, Jr., with her daughter, Wendy Howes, Mrs. Pamela Farrington, Constance Minot, Mrs. E. M. Loew, Mrs. Robert E. Isaacson, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Thomas H. Mahony, Jr., his sister-in-law.

Pat's bridesmaids are Mary Frances Falvey, Nina Robb, Mrs. Samuel Baugh, Susan Bradford, Marian Magee and Susan Rachlin of New York.

WEDDING BELLS will ring continuously during this month of roses. First of the many important June weddings takes place this afternoon when Barbara Stewart Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Briggs of Wellesley Hills, becomes the bride of H. Field Haviland, Jr., son of Mr. Henry F. Haviland, East Orange, N. J., and Mrs. Cole Haviland, Farmington, Ct.

The ceremony is being performed by Rev. Roger W. Bennett and Rev. A. Burns Chalmers at 4:30 in St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Newton Lower Falls. The reception is at home.

Given in marriage by her father the bride is wearing the wedding gown of her great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Henry Payson Briggs of Brookline. It is fashioned of ivory tulle with a shirred bodice and delicate mother of pearl embroidery on the bodice and train. She is wearing a fingertip tulle veil and carrying an old fashioned bouquet of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

The attendants are Mrs. Joseph A. Howell, Pelham, N. Y., and Eleanor H. Briggs, sister of the bride. They are wearing white with wreaths of fresh flowers in their hair and carrying old fashioned bouquets.

Maurice F. Healy, Jr., of New York is best man and the ushers, Loring Briggs and Henry P. Briggs, Jr., brothers of the bride; W. Rhoads Murphey 3d, Cambridge; William S. Flash, Portchester, N. Y.; and Clark McLain, Princeton, N. J.

The couple will live in Cambridge where the groom is engaged in graduate work in political science at Harvard. The bride, granddaughter of Mrs. G. Loring Briggs of Brookline, graduated from Beaver Country Day and Smith College in 1942. During the war she was with the department of social welfare of the Washington Federation of Churches and also with the Red Cross. Mr. Haviland graduated from Harvard in 1941 and was with the board of economic welfare in Washington and Bogota, Colombia, before serving as an officer in the Navy.

DANA HALL ALUMNAE will celebrate Reunion Day with a luncheon at the school Friday. Mrs. James W. Thompson, chairman of the alumnae fund for new buildings, will report on progress of the drive, Mrs. George J. Johnston, principal, will tell of her cross country tour to California this spring in the interests of the drive, and Miss Helen Temple Cook, principal emeritus, will also speak. Mrs. Richard V. Clemence is president of the alumnae association.

Greater Boston graduates attending will include Mrs. Ralph Woodward, Weston; Mrs. Raymond J. Cushman, Westwood; Mrs. Bulkeley F. Winslow, Chestnut Hill; Mrs. William Sumner, Wrentham; Mrs. A. Addison Hobart, Dedham; Nancy Munro and Jane Callahan, Waban; Bertha Rogers, Boston; Mrs. Gage Bailey and Mrs. Preston Clark, Cambridge; Marilyn Fisher, Gloucester; Mrs. Richard Gibbs, and Frances Emery, Wellesley; and Nancy Ray, Ashland.

Margaret O'Brien In Chevalier Film?

Maurice Chevalier, who indicated a preference for Claudette Colbert or Gene Tierney as a co-star, may have to settle for gill-sized Margaret O'Brien. Lester Cowan, production partner of Mary Pickford in the Artists' Alliance outfit, is reported to be seeing the French singer-screen star about okaying the deal for his first made-in-Hollywood picture following a proposed summer vacation in his native France.

Joan Crawford Adopts 2 More

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, June 2—There were two new babies at the Joan Crawford home today.

One of them has been living there for a week, and the other just arrived from an eastern orphanage.

"You ought to see them," Joan enthused when she called me. "They are beautiful little girls—one is called Cathy and the other Cynthia. They are so pretty, and both have great big brown eyes."

This makes four adopted children for Joan. Christina, now 8, and Christopher, 4, were taken by the great-hearted actress when they were a few weeks old.

Al Jolson-Bing Crosby Film Seems Possible

Al Jolson, who at 60 is dynamite as a consequence of the sensational business "The Jolson Story" continues to do, may be teamed with Bing Crosby, if tentative Paramount plans go through. The mammy singer is said to prefer doing a follow on "The Jolson Story" for Columbia.

AIR RIFLE CAUSES INJURY

Struck by flying glass from a window broken by an air rifle slug, Mrs. Almira Fallon, 43, of Business st., Hyde Park, was under treatment today for a gash near her left eye.

RAY BOLGER, ROSE INGHRAM "Three To Make Ready" — MARY ANDERSON REX INGRAM, GEORGIA BURKE "Dark Memory" — "Anna Lucasta"

KAZAN TO DIRECT

Most of the casting for "A Streetcar Named Desire," the new Tennessee Williams play Irene Selznick will produce, will be done in Hollywood; Elia Kazan will direct. The play is set to go on the road and to open in New York shortly before Thanksgiving.

NEW MUSICAL COMING

"Richest Girl in the World," the new musical with a book by John Meehan, Jr., and lyrics by Earl Brent that is described as a modern "Girl Crazy," is due for a pre-Broadway premiere at the Shubert in August. Kay Ballard has been signed up for the title role.

NEW PLAY AT WORCESTER

"Errant Lady," a new play by a Broadway publicist, Nat Dorfman, will be previewed by Guy Palmerton at his summer theater at Worcester, the Playhouse, the week of June 23.

Tonight

COLONIAL — "THREE TO MAKE READY," starring noted dancing comedian, Ray Bolger, in the John Murray Anderson-staged production, returns for a two-week run. Brenda Forbes the featured comedienne, shares the spotlight with comics Bibi Osterwald, Kaye Ballard and Jack McCauley and singers Rose Inghram and Gordon MacRae. The Stanley Gilkey-Barbara Payne presentation had its world premiere here in February, 1946, before embarking on a successful Broadway engagement.

Continuing

PLYMOUTH—"ANNA LUCASTA," the John Wildberg production of Philip Yordan's comedy-drama hit, tonight begins its ninth week and final fortnight here. It will return to New York, continuing its run there. Sadie J. Browne, Georgia Burke, Isabelle Cooley, Ralf Coleman, Rex Ingram, Earle Hyman and Rosette Le Noire included in the excellent cast.

June 9

WILDER "DARK MEMORY," a new play by Herman Boxer, MGM film writer, will be given a pre-Broadway premiere under sponsorship of Edith Gordon. Based on a New Yorker short story, it is about a man who can't escape a guilty conscience. Charles Dingle and Mary Anderson familiar to stage and screen audiences, head cast.

Plane Crash Kills Two At Field Dedication

RALEIGH, N. C., June 2 (AP) —Two men were killed instantly here when their light plane crashed in full view of 5000 spectators at an air show dedicating Raleigh's new civilian air patrol field.

The dead were listed as Walter B. Bruce, 22, a passenger, and H. L. Bobbitt, an instructor at the field, both of Raleigh. The plane was flying in a deprostration of a precision spin.

Braves Twice Snatch Their Fat From Fire

By AUSTEN LAKE

SIRS AND MESDAMES, just when the Pittsburgh Pirates were snorting their hot, fourth-place breath on our pennant-hunting Braves and it looked like another stab in the back, our heroes hauled off and let fly, smacko, between the eyes. And they did it the courageous way. Why, "Courage" has a sound of an ugly knock compared with the job of work the ole Seminoles did in that second cawntest, after blowing a four-run lead with two out in the ninth and then refusing to bog down in the slough of despond. Most other teams would have curled up and waved their paws in the air. But the Braves pulled it out and sent 30,000 happy worshippers home to late ice-box suppers. They won 2-0 and 8-7.

More and more the Braves begin to look like the people the Red Sox thought they were at the start of this season and Bob Elliott, Johnny Hopp and Earl Torgeson like the men Ted Williams, Johnny Pesky and Dom DiMaggio ought to be.

The Word Called "Hustle"

HERE IS A SMASHING EXAMPLE of a hustling ball club with moderate manual talent, the Braves, and a lethargic, dispirited set of guaranteed stars, the Sox. For when a ball club can commit seven errors in an afternoon and still skin off two enemy scalps, they must have an abundance of something. That something is the little phrase "intestinal gumption."

I would credit the major part of this to the tough-gentle inspiration of manager Billy Southworth, who requires sixty seconds of all-out and, if necessary, all-in, energy for every minute his hired hands are on the lawn. And though comparisons, they say, are odious, I would measure his standard of drive against the attitude of the bench boss on the south side of Commonwealth ave. where his minions are treated like an indulgent daddy deals with over-privileged offspring.

For one thing, if you were watching, you'd notice that every Brave runs out his pop flies and slow grounders, however hopeless—and runs 'em out HARD. And I would call attention to the negligent, give-uppy manner in which some, with one or two acknowledged exceptions among the Red Sox, amble and traipse down the base paths after lofting or rolling within easy hand reach of the opposition. Nearly every one of the current bobby sockers do it and most flagrant of all is Williams.

There's a story behind this and Billy Southworth tells it on himself. He relates how, as an outfielder for Cleveland in 1914, under red-jowled Lee Fohl, he too had the lackadaisical habit of loafing on hopeless droolers. Although exceedingly foot fast, and here Billy justifiably compares himself with the Braves' Johnny Hopp, whose footsiness from first base on Ryan's single in the tenth won the second game, he (Billy) lost many a base when the opposing infielder slightly bobbled the ball.

Southworth tells it: "I rolled a teaser down to second base this day and mentally gave myself up. So I trotted down the line when suddenly the baseman juggled the ball and it squirted off to the side. So I put on a sudden head of steam and crossed the sack on a close play. It was one of those eye-wink things and when old Brick Owen, since retired as an umpire, thumbed me out, I burned his ears with every bit of sulphur and flame I could set tongue to. I was a brash kid then.

"Brick looked at me coldly, 'Billy' he said, 'I ought to fine you $50. You know whose fault it was that you flubbed that play and now you're trying to make me the goat before the crowd. But I'll let Fohl take care of you . . .'"

Southworth's Credo

SOUTHWORTH SAYS HE MOOCHED back to the bench where Fohl sat with his mastiff jaws a bright tomato color. "He really laid me out," said Billy, "and I never forgot it. I never thereafter failed to run out every hit to the utmost stretch of leg—and it paid dividends." Now as a manager he exacts the same effort from his athletes and the result is the Braves are recognized as the most heads-up team in their league, just as last year the Sox were the leg sharpies of their circuit—an ability they have let lapse. Why?

There's a story behind this, too. Last winter when Bob Elliott was traded to the Braves from Pittsburgh in the Billy Herman deal, the infielder called on Southworth at his Los Angeles hotel during the minor league convention. Billy greeted him and said, "Bob, I'm sincere in saying you can make the 'difference' in our team. I knew you've got it and the big question is 'will you give it?' I don't know what your habits are in running out hits. But I require every inch of leg speed from my boys and won't take less." Eliott has given it!

Maybe that seems a trivial matter in the audit of a ball club. But it's the essence of hustle and team spirit—minus which no ball club, even one like the gilt-edged Sox, who were guaranteed the 1947 pennant by us newspaper gentry, can go anywhere except toward autumn. The payoff was Sunday before a near-capacity crowd when the Braves committed every blunder in the book and yet had the spinal fortitude to turn defeat into the big jackpot. The word is "hustle" and hustle starts with the bench boss. Need I say more?

Braves Refuse to Talk Flag; Windup With Bucs Today

By FRED HOEY

Billy Southworth and his dashing Braves may or may not be pennant bound but the thousands of ladies who attend today's 2 p. m. on their special day will see for themselves what our local team can do as they tear in the Pittsburgh Pirates in the final game of the current series.

The players wisely refrain from thinking in terms of pennants following the lead of their capable manager who prefers to take each game in stride, which, after all, is the safest and most conservative policy.

That Southworth is determined to offer his best on the hill in his effort to clean up the Pirates is indicated by his nomination of Si Johnson for mound duty this afternoon. Si has been especially effective against all Pirate teams during his long National League career.

Opposed to Ole Si will be "Ripper" Sewell, whose famous blooper ball was given such a terrific home run riding by Ted Wiliams in the all-star game here last summer. Rip believes he can bloop past the Braves. Maybe!

As a result of yesterday's National League developments, the Braves are in third place, a half game behind the second place Cubs and a full game behind the leading Giants, who split a twin bill with the Reds.

The Pirates walked the plank on the Sabbath dropping two games to the dashing Braves, the first, 2-0, and the nightcap, 8-7, in 10 innings. All sorts of baseball was served in this bargain attraction for the swell crowd of 30,656.

The first game, which the brilliant Johnny Sain won by the shutout route, was a rather dull affair, as most pitchers' battles are. Sain was tops and his opponent, Ed Bahr, was also good.

DOUBLE PLAY—Connie Ryan, Braves' second baseman, whips the ball to first for a twin killing in the fifth inning of the Sunday nightcap after forcing Clyde Kluttz, Pirates' catcher, at the keystone sack.

Bob Elliott's homer in the seventh on a 3-2 pitch and Johnny Hoop's fine base running, combined with a hit by Earl Torgeson and an infield out by Elliott, spilled the Pirates.

The second game was one of those to write home about. And it all happened after two men were down in the ninth and two strikes on the batter. Ed Wright was pitching for the Braves and except for two home run balls he fed Ralph Kiner appeared to be sailing along without reefs. He walked weak hitter Basinski. Billy Sullivan, batting for Behrman, then singled. It looked all right until Carl Cox unleashed a single to drive in two runs. This was the end of Mr. Wright. In came Andy Karl, the famed relief pitcher. The only relief he provided was for the Pirate players. Culley Rikard belted a home run into the bull pen section and the old ball game was tied up. Karl walked Elbie Fletcher, he was lifted for Mort Cooper, who put out the fire by forcing Kiner to fly out.

Batting shifts came so frequent that it was a task to keep up with the parade. But when Red Hoffman announced that Jim Bagby would pitch the Boston 10th there was a snicker in the press box.

Ole' Jim has not changed a bit since he wore Red Sox spangles. He certainly can pitch that ball in the slot but has the unhappy faculty of not getting it by the foes' bats. Hopp opened the 10th with a single through Cox. After Sisti fouled out, Connie Ryan tripled to deep left center to bring in the winning run.

Torgeson Runs Hitting Streak to 13 Games

All eyes were on Earl Torgeson during the Sabbath twin bill. The first sacker singled once in four times up in the first game. In the nightcap, he tripled, scored a run and walked twice. He has now hit in 13 straight games . . . Another big feature was the grand base running of Sisti . . . Johnny Sain did an artistic job on the Pittsburgh side in the seventh when he got Jim Russell, Clyde Kluttz and Ed Basinski on strikes . . . It seemed good to get another look at Billy Sullivan even in a pinch role in the eighth inning of the second game when he batted for Ed Bahr. Billy saw long service with the Chicago White Sox as did his dad before him who handled such great twirlers as Big Ed Walsh, Doc White, Nick Altrock and Frank Smith . . . The Braves did some kicking around of the ball in the first game coming up with four errors . . . These Pirates are red hot favorites in the Smoky Town. Just look at these figures on paid customers in 17 home games—346,318. The answer? The great and colorful Hank Greenberg. It's estimated that the American League, in waiving out Hank lost a fortune in goodwill, to say nothing about Hank's hitting power which the Pittsburgh customers certainly fancy.

Our old Braves friend Nick Strincevitch twirled the Braves eighth and got by all right—thanks to the double play when Phil Masi tried to tag up after Sisti's fly to right and go to third. Phil was a dead duck as the ball awaited him . . . Pittsburgh writers with the club are moaning over the recent Giant series of three games in which 49 runs were scored and 23 pitchers used.

The Braves first run was on a hit-and-run play with Elliott grounding to Basiniki as Hopp scored.

Elliott's homer in the seventh was a tremendous smash over the inside fence, just to the left of dead center. It must have carried over 400 feet . . . It was homer No. 5 for Bob . . . Sain now boasts a 5-3 record. Johnny was good with his overhand ball but seemed to have a bit of trouble coming in side arm . . . The Pirate players are strong for Mgr. Billy Herman . . . Baseball fans are a bit fickle. For example Hank Greenberg was greeted with mingled boohs when he first came to bat. Not much of a tribute to one of the finest characters in baseball who played semi-pro ball in East Douglas for the late Walter Schuster.

Jim Russell came within an ace of nailing Torgeson's triple in the fourth of the second. canter. Jim leaped for the ball which carried all of 325 feet to right center but couldn't hold it . . . Don't forget ladies, this is your day at Braves Field when the Braves play the Pirates in a single game starting at 2 o'clock. All that is required is the 50 cents tax and service charge and you take any seat in the grand stand . . . Sisti contributed a fine running catch on Kluttz's blooper behind second base. He was just able to reach it. Night games tomorrow and Wednesday night with the world's champion St. Louis Cards . . . A Thursday afternoon single with the Cards and then a Friday, Saturday, Sunday windup with the Cincinnati Reds. HOEY

Locke, Goodall Round-Robin Winner, Makes Big Hit With Local Golf Fans

By BILL GRIMES

Bobby Locke, South African pro, who came from behind yesterday afternoon to capture the 6th Goodall Invitation Round Robin championship at the Charles River Country Club, must be an amateur at heart.

After overtaking and passing Vic Ghezzi on the back nine of the final round, Locke was presented with a check for $2300 by Frank S. King, prexy of the host club. The title earned the South African $2000 and the extra $300 was for leading the field in medal play with a 347 and for posting the low gross scores on two rounds, one of which was a 65, seven under par and a new course record.

Locke came to this country to purses. He landed at LaGuardia purses. He lenged at LaGuardia Airport two months ago yesterday. He has played in six tournaments and is almost $9000 richer today.

After he received his check, Locke was presented with the Goodall Round Robin Cup, a beautiful trophy. He was under the impression that the Goodall Cup was, as he termed it, a "floating trophy" to be retained as long as he held the title. Later, when he was informed by Elmer L. Ward, sponsor of the classic, that the cup was as much his as the check, Locke almost broke down. His lips quivered, tears filled his eyes and a lump came up in his throat. Then, when Ward offered to send the trophy to South Africa, it was almost too much for the new Goodall champion. Finally, he managed to get control of himself and asked that it be shipped to Mrs. Bobby Locke, who is living in a small town about 30 miles from Johannesburg, Transvaal.

In my opinion, no professional athlete has ever made a more favorable impression with New England sport fans than Locke did during the "Goodall." He is not only one of the best golfers it has been my good fortune to see in action, but he's a grand sportsman, off and on the links. He has great confidence in himself as a golfer, but he didn't do any bragging. Nor did he resort to "double talk." He answered all questions intelligently and conducted himself as a perfect gentleman at all times. Tipping his cap in recognition of applause won Locke thousands of friends during the five days he was at "The River."

After the presentations, Locke thanked Ward personally for extending him an invitation to play in the "Goodall."

"I hope you will invite me again next year," Locke told Ward.

"You bet, I will," replied Ward, "if you are around here."

"I plan to return to this country next fall," declared Locke. "I'm flying to England for the British Open after the United States Open and then I'm going back to Johannesburg. But I expect to be here for the 1948 'Goodall.'"

The 6th Goodall Round Robin Invitation tournament netted the Children's Hospital Medical Center Fund approximately $10,000. The sponsors absorbed every penny of the expense and donated the entire gate receipts to that worthy charity.

Providence Sandlot Trials Follow Lawrence Try-outs

By JACK CONWAY, Jr.

The Record-American-Sunday Advertiser sandlot baseball championships, which will begin Thursday afternoon at O'Sullivan Park, Lawrence, will enter its second stage at Cranston Stadium, Providence, the home of the Providence Chiefs of the New England League, Saturday, June 21.

President John C. O'Donnel of the Chiefs, who announced the Providence try-out, said:

"We, here at Providence, were very happy to be a part of the Hearst National sandlot baseball championships." Mgr. Buzz Boyle of our club and Business Manager George Bishop will have members of our team at Cranston Stadium that day to aid the young ball players.

The best ball players from the Providence area will be selected by a board of coaches and officials headed by Boyle. These boys will then be sent to Fenway Park, Boston, for the final game of the New England championship, July 29, which will be played as part of a Red-Sox-Cleveland Indians double header. The boys will be split into two squads, Joe Cronin, Red Sox pilot, sitting on one bench and Lou Boudreau, Cleveland manager, on the other.

George Atkinson, president of the Lawrence Millionaires of the N. E. League, expects the largest turnout in amateur baseball history for the Lawrence-Haverhill-Lowell try-outs.

"We are getting great co-operation from all the high schools, the American Legion and the CYO," said Atkinson. "Mark Devlin, coach at Lawrence High; Benny Lee, coach at Johnson High in N. Andover; Rev. E. J. McLaughlin, CYO director at St. Michael's, Andover; Hubert Kelley, American Legion baseball coach, and other athletic leaders will aid us in the selection of the Lawrence delegates."

The try-outs are open to all boys between 15 and 18 years of age (inclusive). There is no entry fee. Everything is FREE. Just bring your glove and report to George Atkinson at O'Sullivan Park, Lawrence, June 5.

O'Gansett Takes Center Of Racing Spotlight

By DAVE WILSON

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 2—Narragansett Park ushers in its 30-day summer meeting this afternoon with an interesting card of eight races, featured by an overnight allowance number styled "The Inaugural," a five-and-one-half furlong test for 3-year-olds and upwards.

Thirteen fleet sprinters, headed by G. R. Schneider's George Gains, were entered overnight for The Inaugural which is endowed with a $5000 purse.

George Gains, a chestnut son of He Did, has won five of his nine starts this year, including the $10,000 Phoenix Handicap at Keeneland, where he drubbed Pellicle, Ariel Ace, Buymeabond and other shifty sprinters.

George Gains is slated to tote the top impost of 122 pounds. The Cherry Oca Stables's White Wine, T. C. Melrose's Mel Eppley, W. W. Adams' Flag Drill, M. Stuart's Ogham, S. A. Weidman's Late Time and R. Lipsom's Tiger Call loom as the most formidible of the sprinters listed to oppose the Kentucky flash.

Post time for the initial race has been set for 2:15 p. m.

Suffolk Downs closed down a highly successful spring meeting of 38 days last Saturday with a final day mutuel turnover of $1,739,807 which brought the 38-day total to $39,148,277 and a daily average of $1,030,217. The "play" for Decoration Day and Saturday at the Downs added up to $3,783,392, A New England record for two successive days. Attendance figures reached 677,520 for a daily average of 17,830.

The work of Racing Secretary John P. Turner was outstanding at Suffolk Downs. The genial Marylander was hampered by the lack of real first-class material for his feature races, but he handicapped the meager material at hand so skillfully that thrilling finishes resulted in a great majority of these contests. Saturday's Plymouth Handicap was a typical Turner thriller. At the wire, West Fleet, Hy-Charlie and Agrarian-U were so closely bunched that a photo was necessary before it could be decided that they had finished in the order named. Windmill, the fourth horse in the race, was only a half-length away from the leader and only a head or neck in front of Prince Fabor . . . Tarpan, the sixth member of the field, was beaten off, but he was badly shut off while trying to get through on the inside on the turn that leads into the homestretch.

The fine job turned in by Director Frank Ryan at the Suffolk meeting was also noteworthy. Frank, a very able newspaperman in his own right, was of valuable assistance to visiting turf writers and he did much to win new friends for Suffolk Downs among members of the fourth estate.

In direct contrast to the splendid work turned in by Turner, Ryan and other officials of the Eastern Racing Association, was the lackadasical manner in which the stewards enforced the rules of racing . . . To your envoy's way of reckoning, this august body did little or nothing constructive to curb form reversals which plagued the meeting almost from the beginning . . .

Hughes Family Still Top Gunners

FALL RIVER, June 2—It was a family affair at the Fall River Rod and Gun Club's annual club trap championship matches yesterday with John M. Hughes, Jr., and John M. Hughes, III, father and son, walking off with first places in all three events.

The younger Hughes showed his heels to his dad in the first two events, winning first places in the doubles with 19 broken targets out of 50 in the 16-yard title match.

Son Hughes appeared headed for his third first place win and a clean sweep of the matches early in the handicap 50 target event, but got angry at himself when he missed a target due to a poor shell. This unnerved the youngster and he missed the next six targets, pushing him out of top position.

Sullivan Holds Weight Edge Over Welch in Garden Bout

Tommy Sullivan, South Boston, will box the veteran Coley Welch, former N. E. middleweight champion from Portland, Me., tonight in the Goodwin A. C. 10-round feature at Boston Garden.

Sullivan will have a several pounds advantage over the Portlandcampaigner, and this coupled with his splendid physical conditionmay wear down Welch before the fight is several rounds old.

Tom Collins, featherweight sensation from the South End, will tangle with Ray Dulmaine, Worcester, in the eight round semi-final. This is young Collins' first eight round start. They met once before over a shorter route and Dulmaine cut the South Ender's eye forcing the referee to stop the fight before either had shown to any advantage. This setback, incidentally, is the only blot on Tommy's record, which now stands at 18 wins in 19 starts, 15 of them via k. o's.

The rest of the card includes a pair of sixes in which Jerry King, Providence, meets Pat Shannon, Everett, and Tony Genovese, West End, mingles with Kid Chocolate, Boston. In a four rounder, Dom Saia, former amateur star from the West End House, will battle Danny Ward, Boston.

Cronin to Use Harris in Relief Role

By HERB FINNEGAN

CHICAGO, June 2—Well rested after their lost week-end, the Red Sox opened the second full week of their long road trip today with a double-header against the Chicago White Sox (Ferriss and Fine vs. Rigney and Gillespie).

It's been a melancholy trip to date. Sox have won only two games while losing seven. They were five games off the pace as this was written. They're last in team batting (.236) whereas a year ago they were first. They no longer can depend on Tex Hughson, 20-game winner of 1946, and though Mickey Harris joined the club here after being idle all spring, there is no definite assurance he will be his 1946 self.

"He pitched batting practice at Lynn Saturday," said Joe Cronin, "and Mike Ryba says he's ready to go. Before that, Dr. Ralph McCarthy put his okay on him. I'll use him as a relief pitcher, probably in St. Louis."

If Harris' arm is sound again, his comeback is miraculous. When Cleveland was in Boston on May 22, pitching coach Bill McKechnie touched the sore spot in Harris' shoulder, and Harris cringed in pain.

"Don't throw, young man," advised McKechnie. "Don't throw until that soreness leaves. It's in a bad spot."

McKechnie is no physician but he's accepted as an authority on arm ailments. He had enough of them at Cincinnati (Vander Meer, Walters, Riddle).

Cronin is desperate for pitchers, so much so that he was going to bring up Jim Wilson from Louisville only to learn that the blond righthander whose skull was fractured by a Greenberg drive in 1945, was in the hospital with a broken leg (line drive did it). Lefty McDermott is too young (18) and too wild to bring up.

Cronin will trade, but he'll have to give up much to get little. Detroit wants Sox-owned second baseman Al Kozar from New Orleans, but Cronin isn't anxious to strengthen the Tigers infield. They're too far ahead as it is.

The A's want an infielder to replace injured Gene Handley. Cronin wouldn't mind strengthening the A's if he could get the pitcher he wants in return (Fowler, Coleman or Savage).

White Sox and Browns know they're not going to win the pennant this year, and they might be willing to give up a winning pitcher.

Something's bound to pop before the June 15 trading deadline, it would seem. The Sox won't repeat with Ferriss and Dobson ailing. Besides, Dobson loses effectiveness in the hot weather, which is not far ahead.

Meanwhile Cronin is trying to rally his forces so that they won't be too far behind the Tigers when they return to Boston for night game with the White Sox June 13.

"The two days (Saturday and Sunday) rest has helped Pesky's laryngitis, Williams' foot and Tebbetts' knee," said the Sox skipper today. "Doerr's the only question mark. We can't tell until pregame practice whether his aching back will keep him out again.

"No," he answered, "I don't contemplate any lineup shifts except that Mele will be our right fielder against left and right handed pitchers. He looks like the man to hit behind Williams."

(High tribute to the youngster where Cronin expects him to hit better than Doerr or York.)

"Doerr, York, Pesky and DiMaggio are bound to pick up at the bat," he reflected, "and Williams is a cinch to get above .300 again. Wish they'd all be healthy at once so I could set a definite lineup. I'm having trouble deciding on a lead-off man. I want to use Pesky No. 2 because of his hit-and-run ability." (Could be that he'll put DiMaggio up there again, even though Dom prefers to hit elsewhere).

"When a club's in a slump, there isn't much sense shifting the lineup from day to day. Sanest idea is to field your best men, and let them battle their way out of it."

Sunday's postponement didn't bring any tears to Cronin's eyes. He believes his Sox have hit rock botoom and will be their '46 selves when the replays come.

"Don't quit on us yet," he urged. "After all, we've still got 62 games to play at home. We won the flag at home last year, you know."

'Boo' Has Day Despite Rain

CHICAGO, June 2—Luke Appling Day has been deferred to next Sunday. The perennial White Sox shortstop will be presented with a car, money and other "trinkets" in view of his long service with the club. He started in 1930 . . . Rain didn't interfere with "Dave Ferriss" Day, however. Little Charlie Thurn (10) came in from South Bend with his folks and presented the Sox pitcher with two boxes of fudge. He's the lad who wears a home-made uniform with a big "33" on his back and who insists that Ferriss is the best pitcher in baseball. He's got a scrapbook with all Ferriss' triumphs in it. "Boo" has thousands of youngsters rooting for him all over the land, and he never fails to correspond with them. Fritz Freeman and Sam Gwynne, Gov. Dummer Acad. battery, are among them. Freeman has developed into a no-hit, no-run pitcher.

Southie Rivals Duel

With Artesani Club and the Boston Giants in top spots in the circuit's two divisions, the Park League swings into the fifth week of play tonight with six games on schedule. South Boston twi fans will meet at C. J. Lee Park where the two local entries, McCarthy and Linehan clubs, will meet for the first time this year.

The Macks, although in the cellar of the East Division are anxious to take this one from the Bensonmen for local prestige. The Linehans have been off form thus far this year, but the return to the club last Friday of Johnny Wedemeyer, hard hitting gardener and first sacker and at one time the league's finest hurler, is expected to help matters.

Arch-rivals, the Casey and West Roxbury clubs, are tied for second place behind the Artesanis in the East group. Tonight each hopes for a break when they engage Dorchester clubs. West Roxbury will visit Roberts Field for the first time and Codman Hill fans will see the much talked-of Ralph McLeod, Tony Carom, Johnny McDonald and Red Sliney, against the Walsh Legion Post.

Spot Bass By Plane

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

"Striper spotter supreme" is what anglers are calling Steve Gentle, who has been acting as a liaison agent between surf casters and bass at Martha's Vineyard during the week-end. In his Piper Cub plane, Steve swoops low over the clear waters, sights schools of stripers, and flutters the wings of his plane to fishermen on the beaches, signaling that the bass are waiting to be hooked. Co-pilot Virgil McAllister also helps Steve to locate the finny folk. It's a great system!

Mr. Gentle, an angling expert in his own right, will prove a boon to sportsmen during the big Vineyard Striped Bass Derby, set for Sept. 15-Oct. 15, offering thousands of dollars worth of prizes. Surf casters will scan the skies, anxious for Steve to "mark the spot," for his aid may mean tieing into a fish that's really valuable.

Nat Sperber sends word that the Vineyard surf is "alive with stripers from Katama to the Little Edgartown Bridge!" Local and visiting anglers hit numerous of the species over the holiday period.

Among the Island rod wielders who connected with catches were Al Doyle, with a 22-pounder; Al Prada, several fish; and Earl Silvia, a 13-pounder. All specimens were taken on tin squid . . . Many good schools of bass are now roaming these waters.

Every available boat was in use at Buzzards Bay last week-end, where the sport is speeding up quite a bit, and some schools of small stripers churned through the Canal in early morning hours . . . Stan Knight, of Sagamore, continued to hook 'em, snaring some that averaged 6 to 10 pounds each . . . Dr. J. S. Wacks, So. Braintree, took a 14-pounder at the Herring Run . . . Stan Kozolowski, Worcester, "wrestled" with a nice 14-pounder, landing it on one of those excellent Red Top Atomic Plugs.

ANGLING ANGLES: As was expected thousands of sportsmen tried their luck in Maine and New Hampshire over the holiday, scattered reports indicating that the fishing is improving daily in both states . . . Wardens list the following places as current "hot spots"; Robinson Pond, East Carry Pond, Ellis Pond, and the west branch of the Penobscot river below Seboomook dam . . . Moosehead Lake is yielding trout and togue, with salmon due any day . . . At Calais, Grand Lake and West Lake are producing well, while stream fishermen have been hooking plenty of brookies.

Warden Supervisor Charles Head, Gardiner, says that fishing conditions are better throughout his area, adding that China Lake and the Sheepscot river are pleasing anglers, who have been netting salmon and togue in the lake, plus browns and brookies from the river . . . The Sebago fishing derby was held during the week-end. Why? Such contests only deplete the fish!

As we have mentioned, New Hampshire's best trout stream at the moment appears to be swirling Pine river.

Lynn Sox Hold N.E. Loop Lead

The Fall River Indians' Mel Nicolai tossed a three hit shutout at the Lynn Red Sox yesterday but the latter still lead the New England League by two and a half games over the second place Nashua Dodgers who were beaten by Lawrence on Manager George Kissell's home run.

Lawrence slipped last week after fighting Lynn for the lead in the Class B circuit through the early part of the season.

In the only day game yesterday the Indians defeated the Red Sox 5-0 as only 30 batsmen faced Nicolai.

The veteran Kissell, playing third for the Millionaires, clouted his home run in the seventh to break a 1-1 deadlock and give Lawrence a 2-1 triumph.

Portland's Pilots and the Manchester Giants divided the night's only double-header, the 2-1 Portland victory in the opener snapping a Manchester victory streak at six games. The Giants took the nightcap, 3-4.

The standings

Team	W	L	Pct.	GB
Lynn	19	7	.731	—
Nashua	17	10	.630	2½
Lawrence	14	12	.577	5
Providence	11	12	.478	6½
Manchester	11	14	.440	7½
Fall River	10	13	.435	7½

Crowds Swarm Around Avak—Avak Hagopian (arrow), Armenian faith healer, leaves the Armenian Apostolic Holy Cross Church in Los Angeles, behind a police escort as hundreds swarmed around the edifice for their first glimpse of the 20-year-old mystic on his first public appearance. Hundreds of sick and crippled flock to the young faith healer daily in search of miraculous cures for their ailments. AP Wirephoto

Wedding Party Killed

Ray Brock, of Highland, Ind., holds his bride Viola (insert), after their marriage in Munster, Ind. Twenty minutes later they, and four members of their wedding party, were dead when the auto in which they were riding, collided with a train at a grade crossing. Wreckage of the automobile was spread along the right of way for more than a mile.
